Marilyn And Joe Return To Tokyo Almost Unnoticed

TOKYO, Monday, Feb. 22 (AP)—Marilyn Monroe and her somewhat dour husband, Joe DiMaggio, returned to Tokyo today almost unnoticed by hundreds of Japanese at the airport.

The Japanese were more interested in watching an American-style wrestling match on TV in the airport terminal.

This is the same airport where the DiMaggios were nearly mobbed on their arrival from the United States three weeks ago.

Marilyn is back from a rave tour of Korea entertaining American troops. She said she plans to retire the clinging purple dress she wore on her Korean appearances.

Owners Charge U.S. Restricting British Vessels

LONDON, Feb. 21 (AP)—British shipowners accused the United States today of imposing "almost incredible" restrictions on British merchant ships trading to Far Eastern Communist ports.

They said U. S. authorities had detailed naval cutters to "shadow" these ships from one American port to another.

The powerful Chamber of Shipping of the United Kingdom, a private association, complained that British ships were "subjected to interference by a friendly power" and singled out particularly for criticism Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.). The accusations were made in the chamber's report which will be put before the annual meeting next Thursday. It gave no details of the "shadowing."

Two "Shadowing" Cases

But a spokesman for the organization, speaking by telephone from his home, said shipowner members had reported at least two cases of "shadowing" to the chamber meeting last October. He could not immediately give the exact dates. In each case, he said, the members reported an armed guard was put aboard British ships and U. S. naval cutters escorted them along the American coast.

Donald Anderson, president of the chamber, issued a statement last Oct. 15 saying British ships had "suffered the indignity of having an armed guard on board while in American waters."

The annual report today declared:

"Almost Incredible"

"It is almost incredible that in peacetime the U.S.A. should place armed guards on British merchant ships while in port and detail naval cutters to 'shadow' them from one U. S. port to another. But this happened."

Just how the "shadowing" worked was not explained in the report but it said:

"The drama was lightened by a comic touch when a British ship obligingly reduced speed to enable her U. S. crew to keep station." The British shipowners said they had accepted licensing controls imposed by the government as a means of preventing the use of their ships by foreign charterers for carrying strategic materials to Communist ports.

Cave Explorers Break Camp, Head For Home

CRYSTAL CAVE, Ky., Feb. 21 (AP)—Weary members of a seven-day expedition into Crystal Cave's dark depths broke camp today and headed for home in many parts of the country.

Explorations that led to many scientific discoveries several miles underground ended yesterday when the last of the cavers crawled from the hole-in-the-ground entrance in Mammoth Cave National Park.

Boy, 15, Kills Father During Family Spat

NORTH BAY, Ont., Feb. 21 (AP)—Police said a 15-year-old boy shot and killed his father early today during a family quarrel at their home here.

Police said the father, Russell Croghan, 40, a Canadian Pacific Railway conductor, and his wife were quarreling when the boy appeared with a .22 caliber rifle and shot his father through the head.

They said the boy apparently was trying to protect his mother.

Moscow Apparently Passed Word Along To Soviet Satellites

BERLIN, Feb. 21 (AP)—Russian and satellite people here for the Big Four conference have lifted the curtain a little and given the West a peep at Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov. They said:

1. The Kremlin master is not averse to a Big Two or maybe even a Big Three meeting.

2. He was concentrated on popularizing the government rather than any individual and has won in some circles the unexpected dividend of popularizing himself.

It seemed strange to hear a Russian official and a journalist saying so openly that Malenkov wants to meet with British Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill and perhaps even with President Dwight D. Eisenhower. Quizzed about it, Polish and Czech newsmen said that is true. East German Communist authorities concurred.

Well-Planned Move

If it was a trial balloon planted on the West for reaction, it certainly was a well-planned one, with just about every pro-Moscow group briefed ahead of time.

Churchill has made no secret of his desire to talk with Malenkov. President Eisenhower has been represented as willing to do anything reasonable in the cause of peace but has been noncommittal about high level talks. Congress has reflected considerable repugnance to the idea of chiefs of state reaching decisions in secret talks such as the much criticized Yalta and Potsdam parleys.

"Semi-Official" Report

The Easterners who spoke of a possible top level meeting commented that something to lessen world tensions might come out of such talks, especially on the German and Austrian issues, which remained just as knotty after the foreign ministers' conference as they were when it started.

One satellite source said: "You can take this as at least semi-official: We know Malenkov wants a meeting and we want it too because we think something could be accomplished."

"Malenkov is a smart man. He is not a genius but he is what you call a good housekeeper. We feel safer with him than we did with Stalin, who was a genius, but the question of war and peace is so delicate in these times that a genius can ruin you."

Dulles To Report To Ike On Parley

PALM SPRINGS, Calif., Feb. 21 (AP)—President Eisenhower will get a first hand report on the Big Four Berlin conference from Secretary of State Dulles when the chief executive returns to Washington Wednesday.

Announcing this today, the President's vacation headquarters said Dulles had a personal message of congratulations yesterday "on the fine job he did in Berlin."

James C. Hagerty, presidential press secretary, put it that way in telling newsmen that Eisenhower and Dulles will meet at the White House about 11 a.m., EST, Wednesday to review the Berlin sessions of the foreign ministers of the United States, Great Britain, France and Russia.

Dulles returned to this country last Friday, two days after Eisenhower arrived here for a brief vacation.

Hagerty said the President plans to start back to Washington by plane about 9 p.m., PST, Tuesday, arriving early Wednesday morning.

German Leaves His Factory To Reds, Starts Anew In U.S.

DETROIT, Feb. 21 (AP)—Dr. Werner Frank Kussey, a 43-year-old German electronics engineer, today has no regrets over leaving his multimillion dollar factory behind the Iron Curtain to begin a new career in Detroit.

Kussey, who with his wife Adelaide, 39, and two children, Edward, 6, and Henrietta, 3, fled from East Germany via the underground, is a research engineer at the Square D Co., a Detroit electronics firm.

The German engineer formerly operated his company, the Rheostat-Haube & Co., in Dresden, about 150 miles south of Berlin. Kussey fled to West Germany in January of 1953. He arrived in Detroit last month.

U.S. Information Agency Fires 31 Security Risks

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—Director Theodore Streibert reported to Congress today that 31 persons were fired as security risks from the U. S. Information Agency but "there were no Communists discovered."

Streibert, in a report to Congress on the first five months of his reorganized agency, expressed confidence that "All reasonable measures have been taken to keep the agency free of subversive elements."

No Names Mentioned

The 31 persons dismissed for "various security reasons," he said, were dropped as part of a loyalty-security program which seeks to "be fair to the rights of the individual" while at the same time protecting the safety of the government.

Streibert mentioned no names. Dep. Director Abbott Washburn said the reasons included drunkenness and loose talk as well as questionable loyalty. A breakdown is being submitted to the Civil Service Commission, he said, but he could not release it.

Operations Curtailed

Streibert's report said the information agency, which includes the Voice of America, long a target of Sen. McCarthy's Red-hunting committee, cut down operations at home and abroad about 25 per cent from August to January.

Hit by a 36 per cent slash in appropriations, Streibert cut back overseas posts from 255 to 217 in 76 countries, reduced overseas libraries from 184 to 158. Personnel dropped from 13,500 to 9,281 full-time employees by Dec. 31.

French Locomotive Clocked At 151 MPH

BEAUNE, France, Feb. 21 (AP)—The French electric locomotive which has been scorching the rails in speed tests between Dijon and Beaune claimed another world record today.

The French-owned railways said the 4,350-horsepower flyer, pulling three coaches, streaked over the run at 151.8 miles an hour. This bettered the record of 143.48 miles per hour the locomotive set yesterday.

80 Mau Maus Slain In 2-Day Kenya Battle

British Forces Hope To Cut Off Hundreds Of Fleeing Terrorists

NAIROBI, Kenya, Feb. 21 (AP)—British troops, police, and Kikuyu home guards have killed 80 anti-white Mau Mau terrorists up to noon today in a battle that started yesterday near Fort Hall, 45 miles northeast of Nairobi.

Mau Mau losses since Thursday were put at 119 dead, 40 wounded, and 12 captured. Among those killed was the Mau Mau recruiting officer for the Nairobi area.

Gen. Sir George Erskine, the British commander, returned to Nairobi today from the battle area. He said the security forces plan to cut off hundreds of Mau Mau trying to take refuge in Aberdare forest, 10 miles from the fighting scene.

Strategy Review Set

The fighting started yesterday when the security forces caught up with members of a gang which lost 39 killed in an attack on a police station Thursday.

In London, Colonial Secretary Oliver Lyttelton prepared to fly to Kenya Thursday for a review of the military and political strategy in the overall fight against Mau Mau. Some British and American experts fear the struggle may last a generation before the terrorists are weeded out.

Situation "Grim"

The colonial secretary's trip was announced shortly after he had heard a secret report on Kenya from a six-member parliamentary mission. One mission member said their general impression was "grim." The mission's written report, due this month, appears sure to touch off a red hot debate on Kenya in the House of Commons.

Erskine has reported that one big stumbling block in the path of a British victory is the lack of organized African political support.

McKeldin Budget Will Be Slashed, Thompson Says

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 21 (AP)—After two weeks of peering at and poking through Gov. McKeldin's record 238-million-dollar budget for running Maryland next fiscal year, Del. Thompson (D-Dorchester) said today it will be cut.

But Thompson, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, indicated any reductions will be short of the 1½ million lopped off by the same group last year.

"This budget will be cut," said the Eastern Shore lawmaker. "Such cuts as are finally made will be made upon the principle that service to the public can be maintained at the proper level by efficient operation."

Thompson's committee and the Senate Finance Committee headed by Sen. Goldstein (D-Calvert) have held detailed hearings on the budget, which McKeldin described as already down-to-the-bone.

Officials from only the comptroller's, state auditors, and a few smaller departments remain to be heard.

They are scheduled to go before the committees Tuesday.

Other department heads have appeared to plead that every penny recommended for them by McKeldin—and in some cases more—is essential to their operations.

One Of Most Wanted Fugitives Arrested

ATLANTA, Feb. 21 (AP)—Nelson R. Duncan, 32, of Memphis, Tenn., one of the FBI's 10 most wanted men, was arrested here today on suspicion of burglary.

H. O. Hawkins, FBI agent in charge, said Atlanta police arrested Duncan and a man listed as Thomas L. Sircy, 21, of Springfield, Tenn., in a grocery store about 5 a.m.

Detective H. J. Standridge reported the men were ripping open a safe containing about $2,000 when officers shined a light in the store.

An FBI bulletin said Duncan was wanted on charges of interstate transportation of stolen automobiles, unlawful flight to avoid prosecution and violation of the federal Firearms Act.

Grandma Wins Atom Orphans' Custody

Robert (left), 6, and Michael Rosenberg, 11, sons of executed atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, hug their grandmother, Mrs. Sophie Rosenberg, after a court placed them in her temporary custody in New York. The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children had charged that the children, who had been living with a New York couple, were "exploited for fund raising propositions." The state supreme court placed the children in their grandmother's care pending further children's court litigation tomorrow.

Uniform Handling Of Judicial Appointments Recommended

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—Sen. Hennings (D-Mo) urged today, in the midst of a furor over the handling of Earl Warren's nomination to be chief justice, that uniform procedures be established for judicial appointments.

Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.), another Judiciary Committee member, also said in a separate interview efforts should be made to prevent "slander" of public officials. He said he expected to have more to say about that later.

At a meeting of a Senate Judiciary subcommittee two days ago, 10 unsupported "charges" were publicly aired against Warren, who resigned as governor of California last fall to accept appointment by President Eisenhower as chief justice.

Subcommittee OK's Warren

Although Warren already is serving on the Supreme Court, his nomination was not submitted to the Senate until Jan. 11 and is subject to Senate confirmation.

The Judiciary subcommittee that has been considering his nomination, after falling into a row Friday over publicizing the unevaluated charges against Warren, voted yesterday to recommend approval to the full committee.

Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), said that when the full committee meets Wednesday, he will move to recommend to the Senate that Warren's nomination be confirmed.

"I don't see how the full committee can vote against it," he said, although he added an effort may be made by some members to force further hearings.

Warren Praised By Ike

Sen. Langer (R-ND), chairman of both the full committee and the subcommittee, said he had voted only to refer the nomination to the full committee without recommendation. Sen. Eastland (D-Miss) said that was the way he voted too.

No senator has publicly announced an intention to vote against Warren, and President Eisenhower volunteered the comment yesterday that the former governor is "one of the finest public servants this country has ever produced."

Bank Robbery Suspect Seized

AMHERST, Va., Feb. 21 (AP)—The long arm of circumstance reached out today and brought about the arrest of the second of two men wanted for questioning about the $33,500 Danville, Va., bank robbery Feb. 9.

Edward D. Gowen, 26, was recognized by a woman from his home town of Shipman as he hitch-hiked northward from here. Her call brought a state trooper, who arrested the surprised youth about 5:30 p.m.

Police said Gowen, an escapee from a state prison camp, told them he and a fellow suspect, Roland Lee Hudson, split up after breaking out of the prison camp near Leesburg, January 30.

Hudson was captured Friday by a Florida State patrolman at Bradenton, Fla., along with Frank Thompson, of Portland, Ore., who told officers he was wanted in Oregon on bad check charges.

Deputy Sheriff John Crawford said in Bradenton he has established that Hudson and Gowen were employed by a circus at Sarasota, Fla., the day of the Danville robbery. He said William H. Webster, who handles employment payrolls for the circus train crew, reported that his records showed without doubt that the men were on the job that day.

Three Die, 43 Hurt As Shell Brought To Party Explodes

NUERNBERG, Germany, Feb. 21 (AP)—Police said today a teenage German boy brought a 7.5 centimeter artillery shell to a costume party last night and three persons, including the boy, were killed when it exploded. Forty-three other persons were hurt.

They identified the youth as Johann Raab, an electrician. The other victims were women, one 30 and the other 63. The explosion ripped out the wall of a hall where 380 guests were holding a pre-Lenten party.

Pressure Drops For Early EDC Action By France

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—Three Republican congressional leaders indicated willingness today to ease the pressure on France for a European army decision until after the April Geneva conference on Asiatic problems.

Secretary of State Dulles has been pushing for French ratification of the European Defense Community treaties but Senators Ferguson (R-Mich), Wiley (R-Wis) and Saltonstall (R-Mass) said in separate interviews they doubt such action will be forthcoming immediately.

The issue is likely to be checked to Dulles when he meets with congressional leaders of both parties Monday to report on the Berlin Big-Four conference. At Berlin the decision was made to talk over the prospects for a Far Eastern peace at Geneva, beginning April 26.

Some French leaders have indicated they believe any action on the European army proposal, which Russia has been trying to kill, would reduce chances for an agreement at Geneva to end the Indochina War.

On the other hand, Dulles has told the French that unless they agree to an integrated Western European army, the United States may be forced to make an "agonizing reappraisal" of its policies in Europe. This was generally interpreted in France as a threat to withdraw financial aid and American troops.

British Row Over Graham's Visit Is Blamed On "Slipup"

LONDON, Feb. 21 (AP)—Supporters of American evangelist Billy Graham said tonight the storm over his coming visit to Britain is due to a mistake over one word—socialism.

They issued a 700-word statement "to clarify a difficult and unfortunate situation."

Some Laborite churchmen here are angry because the Billy Graham Evangelistic Assn. issued a calendar which said:

"When the war (World War II) ended, a sense of frustration and disillusionment gripped England and what Hitler's bombs could not do, socialism and its accompanying evils shortly accomplished."

"England's historic faith faltered. The churches still standing gradually emptied . . ."

Stevens Says Senate Prober Abused Officer

Solon Charges Army 'Coddles' Reds, Claims Immunity To Inquiries

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—Secretary of the Army Stevens and Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) traded bitter blasts today over how far the senator can go in quizzing Army officers.

Stevens charged McCarthy with abusing and humiliating an Army general who appeared at a congressional hearing behind closed doors.

McCarthy accused the Army of an "attempt to coddle and promote Communists," and of claiming "special immunity from legislative investigation and exposure of the malefactors."

"Stevens is a loyal man," he said, "but apparently is being made a dupe by holdovers from the previous administration."

The battle over McCarthy's investigating tactics is the aftermath of the honorable discharge granted a reserve Army major, Dr. Irving Peress, who has declined to say whether he was ever a Communist.

Ultimatum Ignored

McCarthy gave the Army a 24-hour ultimatum last Thursday to produce all personnel connected with the Peress discharge. The deadline passed Friday night without any action by the Army.

Last night Stevens made it known that he had directed two Army generals not to appear before McCarthy's committee.

The two are Maj. Gen. William Bergin, Army adjutant general, and Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, commander at Camp Kilmer, N. J.

Stevens, explaining his refusal to permit Zwicker specifically to appear before the committee, said he was "unwilling" for Zwicker to "run the risk of further abuse."

Stevens said in a statement that "Zwicker 'suffered humiliating treatment,' at a closed hearing of the McCarthy committee in New York last week, only because he 'carried out orders given him by his superiors.'"

"I cannot permit the loyal officers of our armed forces to be subjected to such unwarranted treatment," Stevens said.

Stevens Conferred With Wilson

A Defense Department spokesman said Stevens issued his statement today after conferring with Secretary of Defense Wilson and Deputy Sec. Roger Keyes.

The Defense Department said the issue also had been talked over with members of President Eisenhower's staff but that it was not known whether the specific intention to issue a statement had been brought to the direct attention of the President.

In the absence of Wilson and Keyes, Secretary Stevens is the ranking defense official on duty here at the present time.

In ordering Zwicker and Bergin not to appear before McCarthy's committee, Stevens said "the prestige and morale" of the military forces are too important to the security of the nation to have them "weakened by unfair attacks on our officer corps."

Stevens said however he would appear as a voluntary witness before the McCarthy committee in Washington on Tuesday.

Five Officers Subdue Hagerstown Salesman

HAGERSTOWN, Feb. 21 (AP)—A 39-year-old salesman, who police said fended them off with a butcher knife while clutching his infant son in his arms, was captured in his apartment last night by five policemen using clubs and pistols.

Officers said 40 stitches were taken in Lester M. Teeters' head after he was finally overcome.

Teeters, a salesman for a building materials firm, faces trial in magistrate's court tomorrow on charges of assault with intent to kill, assault on police officers, resisting arrest and drunk and disorderly conduct.

Situation "Grim"

The colonial secretary's trip was announced shortly after he had heard a secret report on Kenya from a six-member parliamentary mission. One mission member said their general impression was "grim." The mission's written report, due this month, appears sure to touch off a red hot debate on Kenya in the House of Commons.

Erskine has reported that one big stumbling block in the path of a British victory is the lack of organized African political support.

McKeldin Budget Will Be Slashed, Thompson Says

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 21 (AP)—After two weeks of peering at and poking through Gov. McKeldin's record 238-million-dollar budget for running Maryland next fiscal year, Del. Thompson (D-Dorchester) said today it will be cut.

But Thompson, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, indicated any reductions will be short of the 1½ million lopped off by the same group last year.

"This budget will be cut," said the Eastern Shore lawmaker. "Such cuts as are finally made will be made upon the principle that service to the public can be maintained at the proper level by efficient operation."

Thompson's committee and the Senate Finance Committee headed by Sen. Goldstein (D-Calvert) have held detailed hearings on the budget, which McKeldin described as already down-to-the-bone.

Officials from only the comptroller's, state auditors, and a few smaller departments remain to be heard.

They are scheduled to go before the committees Tuesday.

Other department heads have appeared to plead that every penny recommended for them by McKeldin—and in some cases more—is essential to their operations.

Senators Europe-Bound

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (AP)—Sen. Styles Bridges (R-NH) and Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.), left plane for Europe tonight to inspect defense installations.

They issued a 700-word statement "to clarify a difficult and unfortunate situation."

Some Laborite churchmen here are angry because the Billy Graham Evangelistic Assn. issued a calendar which said:

"When the war (World War II) ended, a sense of frustration and disillusionment gripped England and what Hitler's bombs could not do, socialism and its accompanying evils shortly accomplished."

NNRC Ceases To Exist

PANMUNJOM, Monday, Feb. 22 (AP)—The Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission in Korea went out of existence at midnight Sunday.

Grandma Wins Atom Orphans' Custody

Robert (left), 6, and Michael Rosenberg, 11, sons of executed atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, hug their grandmother, Mrs. Sophie Rosenberg, after a court placed them in her temporary custody in New York. The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children had charged that the children, who had been living with a New York couple, were "exploited for fund raising propositions." The state supreme court placed the children in their grandmother's care pending further children's court litigation tomorrow.

Uniform Handling Of Judicial Appointments Recommended

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—Sen. Hennings (D-Mo.) urged today, in the midst of a furor over the handling of Earl Warren's nomination to be chief justice, that uniform procedures be established for judicial appointments.

Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.), another Judiciary Committee member, also said in a separate interview efforts should be made to prevent "slander" of public officials. He said he expected to have more to say about that later.

At a meeting of a Senate Judiciary subcommittee two days ago, 10 unsupported "charges" were publicly aired against Warren, who resigned as governor of California last fall to accept appointment by President Eisenhower as chief justice.

Subcommittee OK's Warren. Although Warren already is serving on the Supreme Court, his nomination was not submitted to the Senate until Jan. 11 and is subject to Senate confirmation.

The Judiciary subcommittee that has been considering his nomination, after falling into a row Friday over publicizing the unvalued charges against Warren, voted yesterday to recommend approval to the full committee.

Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), said that when the full committee meets Wednesday, he will move to recommend to the Senate that Warren's nomination be confirmed. "I don't see how the full committee can vote against it," he said, although he added an effort may be made by some members to force further hearings.

Warren Praised By Ike. Sen. Langer (R-ND), chairman of both the full committee and the subcommittee, said he had voted only to refer the nomination to the full committee without recommendation. Sen. Eastland (D-Miss) said that was the way he voted too.

No senator has publicly announced an intention to vote against Warren, and President Eisenhower volunteered the comment yesterday that the former governor is "one of the finest public servants this country has ever produced."

Edward D. Gowen, 26, was recognized by a woman from his home town of Shipman as he hitchhiked northward from here. Her call brought a state trooper, who arrested the surprised youth about 5:30 p.m.

Police said Gowen, an escapee from a state prison camp, told them he and a fellow suspect, Roland Lee Hudson, split up after breaking out of the prison camp near Leesburg, January 30.

Hudson was captured Friday by a Florida State patrolman at Bradenton, Fla., along with Frank Thompson, of Portland, Ore., who told officers he was wanted in Oregon on bad check charges.

Deputy Sheriff John Crawford said in Bradenton he has established that Hudson and Gowen were employed by a circus at Sarasota, Fla., the day of the Danville robbery. He said William H. Webster, who handles employment payrolls for the circus train crew, reported that his records showed without doubt that the men were on the job that day.

Some Laborite churchmen here are angry because the Billy Graham Evangelistic Assn. issued a calendar which said:

"When the war (World War II) ended, a sense of frustration and disillusionment gripped England and what Hitler's bombs could not do, socialism and its accompanying evils shortly accomplished."

"England's historic faith faltered. The churches still standing gradually emptied . . ."

Three Die, 43 Hurt As Shell Brought To Party Explodes

NUERNBERG, Germany, Feb. 21 (AP)—Police said today a teenage German boy brought a 7.5 centimeter artillery shell to a costume party last night and three persons, including the boy, were killed when it exploded. Forty-three other persons were hurt.

They identified the youth as Johann Raab, an electrician. The other victims were women, one 30 and the other 63. The explosion ripped out the wall of a hall where 380 guests were holding a pre-Lenten party.

Pressure Drops For Early EDC Action By France

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—Three Republican congressional leaders indicated willingness today to ease the pressure on France for a European army decision until after the April Geneva conference on Asiatic problems.

Secretary of State Dulles has been pushing for French ratification of the European Defense Community treaties but Senators Ferguson (R-Mich), Wiley (R-Wis) and Saltonstall (R-Mass) said in separate interviews they doubt such action will be forthcoming immediately.

The issue is likely to be checked to Dulles when he meets with congressional leaders of both parties Monday to report on the Berlin Big-Four conference. At Berlin the decision was made to talk over the prospects for a Far Eastern peace at Geneva, beginning April 26.

Some French leaders have indicated they believe any action on the European army proposal, which Russia has been trying to kill, would reduce chances for an agreement at Geneva to end the Indochina War.

On the other hand, Dulles has told the French that unless they agree to an integrated Western European army, the United States may be forced to make an "agonizing reappraisal" of its policies in Europe. This was generally interpreted in France as a threat to withdraw financial aid and American troops.

British Row Over Graham's Visit Is Blamed On "Slipup"

LONDON, Feb. 21 (AP)—Supporters of American evangelist Billy Graham said tonight the storm over his coming visit to Britain is due to a mistake over one word—socialism.

They issued a 700-word statement "to clarify a difficult and unfortunate situation."

Some Laborite churchmen here are angry because the Billy Graham Evangelistic Assn. issued a calendar which said:

"When the war (World War II) ended, a sense of frustration and disillusionment gripped England and what Hitler's bombs could not do, socialism and its accompanying evils shortly accomplished."

Stevens Says Senate Prober Abused Officer

Solon Charges Army 'Coddles' Reds, Claims Immunity To Inquiries

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—Secretary of the Army Stevens and Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) traded bitter blasts today over how far the senator can go in quizzing Army officers.

Stevens charged McCarthy with abusing and humiliating an Army general who appeared at a congressional hearing behind closed doors.

McCarthy accused the Army of an "attempt to coddle and promote Communists," and of claiming "special immunity from legislative investigation and exposure of the malefactors."

"Stevens is a loyal man," he said, "but apparently is being made a dupe by holdovers from the previous administration."

The battle over McCarthy's investigating tactics is the aftermath of the honorable discharge granted a reserve Army major, Dr. Irving Peress, who has declined to say whether he was ever a Communist.

Ultimatum Ignored

McCarthy gave the Army a 24-hour ultimatum last Thursday to produce all personnel connected with the Peress discharge. The deadline passed Friday night without any action by the Army.

Last night Stevens made it known that he had directed two Army generals not to appear before McCarthy's committee.

The two are Maj. Gen. William Bergin, Army adjutant general, and Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, commander at Camp Kilmer, N. J.

Stevens, explaining his refusal to permit Zwicker specifically to appear before the committee, said he was "unwilling" for Zwicker to "run the risk of further abuse."

Stevens said in a statement that "Zwicker" "suffered humiliating treatment," at a closed hearing of the McCarthy committee in New York last week, only because he "carried out orders given him by his superiors."

"I cannot permit the loyal officers of our armed forces to be subjected to such unwarranted treatment," Stevens said.

Stevens Conferred With Wilson. A Defense Department spokesman said Stevens issued his statement today after conferring with Secretary of Defense Wilson and Deputy Sec. Roger Keyes.

The Defense Department said the issue also had been talked over with members of President Eisenhower's staff but that it was not known whether the specific intention to issue a statement had been brought to the direct attention of the President.

In the absence of Wilson and Keyes, Secretary Stevens is the ranking defense official on duty here at the present time.

In ordering Zwicker and Bergin not to appear before McCarthy's committee, Stevens said "the prestige and morale" of the military forces are too important to the security of the nation to have them "weakened by unfair attacks on our officer corps."

Stevens said however he would appear as a voluntary witness before the McCarthy committee in Washington on Tuesday.

Five Officers Subdue Hagerstown Salesman

HAGERSTOWN, Feb. 21 (AP)—A 39-year-old salesman, who police said fended them off with a butcher knife while clutching his infant son in his arms, was captured in his apartment last night by five policemen using clubs and pistols.

Officers said 40 stitches were taken in Lester M. Teeters' head after he was finally overcome.

Teeters, a salesman for a building materials firm, faces trial in magistrate's court tomorrow on charges of assault with intent to kill, assault on police officers, resisting arrest and drunk and disorderly conduct.

Unclaimed MIG To Go On Display At Dayton

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—The unclaimed Russian-built MIG15 for which a renegade North Korean pilot received $100,000 has arrived at Dayton, Ohio, and will be displayed there publicly for the first time Wednesday.

The Wright Air Development Center at Wright-Patterson Field plans to give a flight demonstration of the jet fighter in connection with a showing for newsmen.

Give Your Dry Skin A Magic-Like Drink
from the Real Fountain of youth

If your skin feels at all dry—if tiny lines around your eyes caused by dryness are beginning to worry you, it is because your skin is thirsting for more cholesterol and esters than it can make within itself. Lanolin Plus Liquid is, therefore, the real "Fountain of Youth" for your skin, for its penetrating action gives your skin a new and rich supply of cholesterol and esters. Your skin becomes softer and smoother as just a few days go by, and those tiny, dry-skin lines fade. Results are no less than astonishing! Even the first morning after your first nightly use of Lanolin Plus Liquid, you'll feel a difference. Get yours today. Use it as a cleanser—use it instead of a night cream—use it as a powder base. By keeping this patented, penetrating form of lanolin in constant contact with your skin 24 hours a day, you'll quickly become a much happier woman. Lanolin Plus Liquid is but $1 plus tax.

Frostburg Flier Dies In Navy Plane Crash

Stayed With Ship To Prevent Fall On Crowded City

FROSTBURG — Lt. George Garfield Jeffries, Jr., 28, son of Mr. and Mrs. George G. Jeffries, Sr., Depot Street, died a hero's death Friday, when he crashed his disabled F6F plane to keep the ship from falling on Lake Charles, La., a city of about 50,000 population. Official sources said Jeffries refrained from bailing out of the plane, because he felt the abandoned ship would crash in the city and kill or injure many people.

According to the Associated Press, Jeffries' charred body was pulled from the wreckage of the ship just outside the city limits where he crash-landed.

Lt. Jeffries, acting as an instructor at Kingsville Air Base near Corpus Christi, Texas, since returning from active duty in Korea, was on a routine flight Friday night to Macdill AFB, Tampa, Fla., when his War II fighter plane developed engine trouble.

From radio reports, an accompanying plane and ground witnesses, this was the story:

The two planes, with the second piloted by Lt. Walter H. Maddox, circled the area from 7:20 p.m., when the engine trouble developed, until the crash, between 8:12 and 8:15 p.m. Friday.

At 16,000 feet Jeffries radioed "losing altitude fast." At 8:08 p.m. he radioed he was down to 8,000 feet with his engine almost dead. Maddox told Jeffries to bail out at 5,000 feet, but Jeffries replied that there was overcast at 3,400 feet and he wanted to see what was below and would try to bail out at 2,500.

At 8:13 he reported he was at 2,500 and approaching a large city from the west and would try to make Lake Charles AFB, east of the city. When he saw he couldn't make the landing field, he said he would try to bail out at 500 feet. Witnesses said he came out of the overcast, dipped his wings first to one side and then to the other to get a better look at the terrain. When he saw he couldn't make the landing field and might go down in the city, he changed directions and headed for a rice field.

He would have made a belly landing, but a 10-foot embankment on an abandoned irrigation canal was too high. His plane crashed and burst into flames.

Born in Frostburg July 24, 1925, he was graduated from Beall High School in 1941 and enlisted under the V-12 program. Following training he received an appointment to the United States Naval Academy in Annapolis and completed the four-year course in three years, graduating in 1947.

Lt. Jeffries served one and one-half years on the U.S.S. St. Paul in China area as gunnery officer and while aboard ship received word he had been accepted for flight training. He went to Pensacola Field in 1949. Following a training period there he went to Quonset Point, and was assigned to a squadron. He served aboard the carrier Roosevelt for eight months in the Mediterranean and later with the carrier Wasp in the South America area.

Lt. Jeffries went to Korea with his squadron where he served eight months on the carrier Bon Homme Richard, making 64 missions over the battle area. His plane was damaged on 11 missions.

He returned to the United States and was named instructor. Surviving are his parents and two sisters, Mrs. Robert Barnes and Mrs. Mark A. Felton, both of Garden City, Long Island. Charles S. Jeffries, Frostburg, is an uncle. The body will be brought to Frostburg for burial.

Martinsburg Journal To Rebuild Offices

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Feb. 21 (AP)—Otto K. Reuter, general manager of the Martinsburg Journal, says the newspaper has let out $75,000 in contracts for reconstruction of its plant burned out in a fire Nov. 19.

Reuter said he hoped to have work completed Aug. 1. Since the fire, the paper's offices have been in a big room in City Hall. The mechanical department was restored within a few days of the fire.

The Journal did not miss a single edition, but for the first three days after the fire published only an abbreviated newspaper at Hagerstown, Md. New equipment will bring the total cost of the rebuilding to $100,000, Reuter said.

Keyser Scout Troop Receives New Charter

Rotary Club Sponsors Unit

PIEDMONT — Boy Scout Troop No. 30, oldest troop in the Tri-Towns, sponsored by Piedmont Rotary Club since it was organized in 1924, has received its thirtieth charter. Before the organization of Potomac Council it was Troop No. 1.

Before the services the boys were guests at the regular dinner meeting of Rotary held in the recreation hall of the church.

Dr. E. E. Church, president of Potomac State College, Keyser, was principal speaker.

The troop meeting which followed the Rotary meeting was opened with the usual scout ceremony under the direction of Thomas Elliott, senior patrol leader. The invocation was given by Dr. Donald P. Whitworth, Tri-Towns district chairman.

Julian G. Patrick, council commissioner, paid tribute to the club for its long sponsorship of the troop and for the assistance it has provided the scout movement during the past 29 years.

Elmer J. Shaver, president of the club, accepted the charter and delivered it to Scoutmaster James Rafter Sr. Membership cards were given assistant scoutmasters, patrol leaders and scouts.

Three new scouts were inducted into the troop by Scoutmaster James Rafter, assisted by Thomas Elliott, senior patrol leader. The new scouts are James Mertz, John McIntyre and Eugene Wiltson.

A demonstration in first aid was given by Philip Skidmore and Richard Connor. Lynn Morris and Jesse Harris showed how to start a fire with flint and steel.

A human pyramid formed by Gene Wiltson, Alfred Harris, Thomas Whelan, Jesse Harris, Lynn Morris, James Rafter, Robert Laughlin, Neal Riley, Robert Wiltson and Richard Miller.

Scoutmaster Rafter was assisted by Ronald Carpenter and James Devine, assistant scoutmasters.

The scout meeting ended with the usual ceremony. After the meeting a movie showing the advantages of scouting was viewed. A number of parents of the boys attended the ceremonies and the movie.

Soroptimists Hear Talk On Public Welfare

Maryland Program Outlined By Director

PIEDMONT—A talk on the public assistance program was given at a dinner meeting of the Tri-Towns Soroptimist Club at Potomac Hotel, by Mrs. Eleanor Westerfeld, Cumberland, director of the Allegheny County Welfare Board.

Mrs. Westerfeld stated that sixty-five percent of the funds for the welfare program are provided by the federal government and the balance by the state and county. In Allegheny County the board is assisting 665 persons over 65 years of age, 800 children, 300 totally disabled persons and 24 blind people, she declared.

Miss Harris, case worker, discussed the problems of many aged persons especially women who live alone and receive only enough assistance for the bare necessities of life.

Handicapped by ill health and lack of means of transportation, many of them are unable to attend church or social functions and do need help to occupy their time.

Mrs. Ella Everstine, member of the Cumberland Soroptimist Club was a visitor. Mrs. Jake Wilson was received as a new member.

The club will hold a public card party March 1 at Jake's Place, Westernport. Bridge, 500 and setback will be played. Refreshments will be served.

Mrs. Edith Lambert, Mrs. Stella Carey and Mrs. Dorothy Dennison were appointed members of a nominating committee to report at the dinner meeting March 16, when the election will be held.

Mars Hill Club Favors Forming County Chorus

GRANTSVILLE—The Mars Hill Homemakers Club met recently at the home of Mrs. Morris Beachy. Roll call was answered by 16 members, each giving the name of the most enjoyable book read recently.

The new constitution was read and alterations were made. The January and February meetings were combined since the January meeting was postponed. Mrs. Morris Beachy read an article in Family Life and also gave a short book report on the "Man Called Peter."

Mrs. Edsworth Beachy measured some of the members for the purpose of finding the correct size dress patterns.

Mrs. Alvin Bowser food chairman served the group. Some of the members decided they would like to see a County Chorus organized.

Refreshments were served by the hostess. The March meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Dan Folk, March 9 at 1:30 p.m.

Frostburg Flier Dies In Navy Plane Crash

Stayed With Ship To Prevent Fall On Crowded City

FROSTBURG — Lt. George Garfield Jeffries, Jr., 28, son of Mr. and Mrs. George G. Jeffries, Sr., Depot Street, died a hero's death Friday, when he crashed his disabled F6F plane to keep the ship from falling on Lake Charles, La., a city of about 50,000 population. Official sources said Jeffries refrained from bailing out of the plane, because he felt the abandoned ship would crash in the city and kill or injure many people.

According to the Associated Press, Jeffries' charred body was pulled from the wreckage of the ship just outside the city limits where he crash-landed.

Lt. Jeffries, acting as an instructor at Kingsville Air Base near Corpus Christi, Texas, since returning from active duty in Korea, was on a routine flight Friday night to Macdill AFB, Tampa, Fla., when his War II fighter plane developed engine trouble.

From radio reports, an accompanying plane and ground witnesses, this was the story:

The two planes, with the second piloted by Lt. Walter H. Maddox, circled the area from 7:20 p.m., when the engine trouble developed, until the crash, between 8:12 and 8:15 p.m. Friday.

At 16,000 feet Jeffries radioed "losing altitude fast." At 8:08 p.m. he radioed he was down to 8,000 feet with his engine almost dead. Maddox told Jeffries to bail out at 5,000 feet, but Jeffries replied that there was overcast at 3,400 feet and he wanted to see what was below and would try to bail out at 2,500.

At 8:13 he reported he was at 2,500 and approaching a large city from the west and would try to make Lake Charles AFB, east of the city. When he saw he couldn't make the landing field, he said he would try to bail out at 500 feet.

Witnesses said he came out of the overcast, dipped his wings first to one side and then to the other to get a better look at the terrain. When he saw he couldn't make the landing field and might go down in the city, he changed directions and headed for a rice field.

He would have made a belly landing, but a 10-foot embankment on an abandoned irrigation canal was too high. His plane crashed and burst into flames.

Born in Frostburg July 24, 1925, he was graduated from Beall High School in 1941 and enlisted under the V-12 program. Following training he received an appointment to the United States Naval Academy in Annapolis and completed the four-year course in three years, graduating in 1947.

Lt. Jeffries served one and one-half years on the U.S.S. St. Paul in China area as gunnery officer and while aboard ship received word he had been accepted for flight training. He went to Pensacola Field in 1949. Following a training period there he went to Quonset Point, and was assigned to a squadron. He served aboard the carrier Roosevelt for eight months in the Mediterranean and later with the carrier Wasp in the South America area.

Lt. Jeffries went to Korea with his squadron where he served eight months on the carrier Bon Homme Richard, making 64 missions over the battle area. His plane was damaged on 11 missions.

He returned to the United States and was named instructor. Surviving are his parents and two sisters, Mrs. Robert Barnes and Mrs. Mark A. Felton, both of Garden City, Long Island. Charles S. Jeffries, Frostburg, is an uncle. The body will be brought to Frostburg for burial.

Martinsburg Journal To Rebuild Offices

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Feb. 21 (AP)—Otto K. Reuter, general manager of the Martinsburg Journal, says the newspaper has let out $75,000 in contracts for reconstruction of its plant burned out in a fire Nov. 19.

Reuter said he hoped to have work completed Aug. 1. Since the fire, the paper's offices have been in a big room in City Hall. Its mechanical department was restored within a few days of the fire.

The Journal did not miss a single edition, but for the first three days after the fire published only an abbreviated newspaper at Hagerstown, Md. New equipment will bring the total cost of the rebuilding to $100,000, Reuter said.

Auxiliary Entertains Volunteer Firemen

KEYSER — The Ladies Auxiliary to Keyser Volunteer Fire Company was host to the firemen and their wives at a "get together" party in the fire hall. The evening was spent in playing games, and refreshments were served.

J. Cross, Mrs. W. E. Bolverd, Mr. Frank Stucky and E. K. Smith.

Keyser Scout Troop Receives New Charter

Rotary Club Sponsors Unit

PIEDMONT — Boy Scout Troop No. 30, oldest troop in the Tri-Towns, sponsored by Piedmont Rotary club since it was organized in 1924, has received its thirtieth charter. Before the organization of Potomac Council it was Troop No. 1.

Before the services the boys were guests at the regular dinner meeting of Rotary held in the recreation hall of the church.

Dr. E. E. Church, president of Potomac State College, Keyser, was principal speaker.

The troop meeting which followed the Rotary meeting was opened with the usual scout ceremony under the direction of Thomas Elliott, senior patrol leader. The invocation was given by Dr. Donald P. Whitworth, Tri-Towns district chairman.

Julian G. Patrick, council commissioner, paid tribute to the club for its long sponsorship of the troop and for the assistance it has provided the scout movement during the past 29 years.

Elmer J. Shaver, president of the club, accepted the charter and delivered it to Scoutmaster James Rafter Sr. Membership cards were given assistant scoutmasters, patrol leaders and scouts.

Three new scouts were inducted into the troop by Scoutmaster James Rafter, assisted by Thomas Elliott, senior patrol leader. The new scouts are James Mertz, John McIntyre and Eugene Wiltson.

A demonstration in first aid was given by Philip Skidmore and Richard Connor. Lynn Morris and Jesse Harris showed how to start a fire with flint and steel.

A human pyramid formed by Gene Wiltson, Alfred Harris, Thomas Whelan, Jesse Harris, Lynn Morris, James Rafter, Robert Laughlin, Neal Riley, Robert Wiltson and Richard Miller.

Scoutmaster Rafter was assisted by Ronald Carpenter and James Devine, assistant scoutmasters.

The scout meeting ended with the usual ceremony. After the meeting a movie showing the advantages of scouting was viewed. A number of parents of the boys attended the ceremonies and the movie.

Honoring Washington

Although the name Washington is attached to an important state and to countless cities, counties and townships—and to principal streets in nearly every city in the land—the nation's capital was not named Washington until after the death of the great patriot.

Originally Washington, D. C., was called the Federal City. Not until 10 days after Washington's death at Mt. Vernon did Congress adopt a resolution to the effect that a monument in tribute to the republic's first President be erected in "the city of Washington." The cumbersome expression "City of Washington" was later transformed into "Washington's City." Later the designation was simplified by dropping both the apostrophe and the word "City."

Hence, in a few years after the Father of His Country had been laid to rest, the Republic's capital became known simply as Washington. Selection of a site for the capital was a "hot potato" during the federal union's infancy. Washington served his two terms as President in New York and Philadelphia.

First public building to be erected after the present site was selected was the Capitol. Next was the executive mansion. Both were constructed of Virginia sandstone somewhat reddish in color. After the War of 1812, during which it was set on fire by the British, the executive mansion was painted white to cover the scars of the fire and ever since has been known as the White House.

The structure within the federal city which more than any other gives the republic's capital an air of distinction unmatched by any capital city on the globe is the Washington monument. The resolution proposing that a monument be built was passed in 1790. Eighty-five years later it was finished! And four more years elapsed before it was opened to the public. Its cornerstone was laid with elaborate ceremonies on July 4, 1848, in the presence of many honored guests, among whom were the widows of James Madison, John Quincy Adams and Alexander Hamilton, the last-named being 91 at the time.

Construction of the shaft had reached a height of 152 feet by 1854. It stayed at this point until 1877, largely because of foundation troubles and the uncertain days during and after the Civil War. Congress finally turned the job over to Army engineers, who pushed it through to completion and placed the capstone in December 1884.

And there this symbol of Washington's moral character and integrity stands today, 555 feet, 5 1/2 inches above the ground. The shaft, faced with marble from Massachusetts and Maryland, is 55 feet square at its base. Its walls taper from a thickness of 15 feet at the base to 18 inches at the top. Each state has placed a stone of its own along the stairway of 898 steps.

Pass The Oogruk

What is an oogruk? This isn't a quiz question, exactly. There isn't a prize for the right answer, not even a pair of live oogruks. Webster's Unabridged and the Encyclopedia Britannica are of no help. But how is the lady of the house to whip up a nice dish of oogruk flippers a l'Esquimaux if she cannot find out what an oogruk is?

The recipe occurs in an Eskimo cookbook prepared by the pupils of Shismaref Day School, Shismaref, Alaska: "Cut the flippers off from the oogruk. Put the flippers in fresh seal blubber. Let them stay there about two weeks. Take the loose fur off the flipper. And then cut them in small pieces and eat the meat." This should be a good hot-weather dish—it requires no cooking. If you have an oogruk, that is.

The cookbook also contains recipes for boiled owl, soured seal liver, white-whale stew. There are desserts, too. Eskimo ice cream—no relation to Eskimo pie—is made by grating reindeer tallow, slowly beating in seal oil, adding water, whipping until light and fluffy, and adding suewuk. If you happen to be out of suewuk, use any other berries.

These dishes taste better than might be assumed, no doubt. If you live where the thermometer hits 50 below and keeps on dropping, you need an enormous amount of fat in your diet to keep you warm. Fat will produce heat at the rate of more than 4,000 calories a pound. Sugar has only 1,800 plus, and less concentrated foods usually contain considerably less than that. If you live in an Eskimo climate, your body would need and welcome lots of fat, and a nice hunk of blubber would make your mouth water.

Oogruk or no oogruk, the Eskimos are a remarkable people. They have no police chiefs, soldiers or prisons. The force of public opinion is so incredibly strong that it almost always guarantees good behavior. The rare exceptions are punished only by partial ostracism unless all members of the community, after long debate, vote unanimously for the death penalty. It is generally agreed that, until the white man brought his vices and viruses Eskimos were the healthiest and happiest people in the world. Even now they are sorry for unfortunate people who never ate a raw oogruk flipper.

Cold War Goes On

With the collapse of the Big Four conference in Berlin two facts appear in clear outline, and neither one is pleasant to contemplate. It has been demonstrated again that it is useless to talk with the Soviet Union on a give-and-take basis or in terms of settling either the German or Austrian questions.

If nothing was gained as a result of this conference, perhaps it was worthwhile merely because it re-emphasized the obdurate position of the Russians.

If the conference has the effect of stiffening the backbones of France and other European nations, something else will have been achieved. It should be clear at long last to those who have followed a weak-kneed policy that the Russian menace is real and will remain so into the indefinite future.

The Pentagon need no longer be in doubt as to what military policy it will be compelled to pursue. As long as the Russians refuse—as they have again refused—to withdraw any of their troops from within the shadow of Western Europe, there is nothing for Europe to do except to be eternally prepared to meet force with force.

Thus, in spite of another meeting of the leaders of the United States, Great Britain, France and the Soviet Union, and in spite of the frequent protestations by Moscow that all Russia wants is peace, the continuation of the cold war becomes a tragic certainty.

There never was substantial reason to believe that the conference would result otherwise. But the tragic implications leave little room for satisfaction in hindsight.

Skin Rashes During Pregnancy

Pregnancy leads to many changes in the body including the skin. Excess pigment forms, hair grows in certain areas, and more than half the women develop puffiness of the ankles. Others complain of acne, hair loss, and cracking of the nails. Attacks of flushing, coldness, goose flesh, and hives are common.

Despite these changes, pregnant women are no more susceptible to skin disorders than are other women. Itching is a prevalent complaint, especially during the middle and latter parts of the gestation period. The area between the thighs frequently is involved and sometimes the whole body is affected. Most women are bothered only at night and the condition is likely to be worse during the summer time.

There are many causes varying from neurosis to toxemia. In several instances yeast, fungi, and ringworm have been found on the irritated tissues. Itching bothers some more than others. When it is extremely severe, it has been necessary to deliver the child prematurely in order to give relief. The disorder usually disappears at the termination of pregnancy. Many obstetricians suspect that the endocrine glands play a role because irritation vanishes after the baby is born and may reappear during the next pregnancy.

Treatments range from mild sedatives for those who are nervous to the usual soothing solutions like calamine lotion. It is important to keep the parts clean and dry to prevent molds and yeast from settling in these areas. Irritating discharges may be relieved by daily vinegar douches, using four tablespoonfuls of white vinegar to 2 quarts of warm water.

Pregnancy also is associated with changes of pigment in the skin of the breasts, abdomen, face, and other areas. The forehead, cheeks, and nose may be covered with brown stains (mask of pregnancy) that cannot be wiped off. Darkening of the eyelids also takes place, especially among brunettes. Vascular changes are prevalent, including spider veins on the face, chest, and arms. They usually appear in the second to fifth month and increase slowly in size and number. These spiders consist of a central point from which tiny veins project, giving the appearance of a body with many branching legs.

The only rash that is blamed on actual pregnancy is herpes gestationis. In this condition, crops of blisters arise on the arms, legs, face, and chest. These lesions rupture and the contents form crusts that make the blisters look like cold sores. The condition disappears when the child is born.

REPLY

Definite thyroid underactivity lowers metabolism and, as a result, the pulse slows and the individual becomes sluggish and tires easily. He gains weight easily because the food consumed is not burned into energy. Surface indications include dry cold skin and sparse hair. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on hypothyroidism.

KIDNEY TUMOR

W. L. writes: What is Wilms' tumor?

REPLY

A rare tumor of the kidney, encountered only in children. If it is removed before the growth has a chance to spread, the outcome is good.

NIGHT RISING

B. J. writes: Is treatment desirable for chronic once-a-night rising? Although I am healthy, I have done this for years.

REPLY

Medical treatment is not called for if night rising represents a habit. But getting up at night disturbs sleep and you ought to break yourself of the habit. Some persons are successful along this line if they limit the intake of fluids after dinner. Others force themselves to disregard the urge, even if it means lying awake for a while. After paying no attention to nature's call for several nights in a row, they no longer awaken with a desire to void.

Rhee Wants To Resume Korean War To Help Indochina; White House Sidesteps Customary Channels In Sending Mechanics Overseas

WASHINGTON—Here is a condensation of the inside story of what we are doing—or not doing—regarding Indochina. It is a story of French suspicion coupled with American indecision, and the net result is likely to be loss of the richest tin and rubber area in the world to communism.

A lot of Americans walked because rubber was scarce in World War II, and a lot of others collected old cans and tooth-paste tubes because tin was scarce. Now the vital area which supplies these essentials is in just as much jeopardy as during the days when Japan occupied Singapore.

Here are some of the chapters in the story:

Syngman Rhee Offers To Renew War — President Syngman Rhee's offer to send one South Korean division to fight in Indochina was only part of the message which

Gen. John E. Hull brought to the White House. Most important part of the message was that Korea wanted to resume the war in order to divert the Chinese military from the Indochinese border.

Rhee proposed to Ike, through General Hull, that South Korean troops do all the ground fighting if war was resumed. What he wanted was help from the U. S. Air Force and Navy. Rhee argued that seven Chinese divisions had been taken out of Korea, so he could easily crack the new cement-and-steel Communist defense line.

Originally Rhee proposed going direct to the French with his idea, but General Hull persuaded him to wait until Eisenhower himself had a chance to consider it.

President Eisenhower was not enthusiastic. The last thing he wants is to start the Korean War over again. It is recognized that the end of the Korean War made it possible for the Chinese to divert tremendous amounts of supplies to Indochina, but Ike just doesn't want to get mixed up in Korea again anyway.

Mechanics To Indochina — One trouble with U. S. policy regarding Indochina is lack of coordination. One branch of the government doesn't know what the others are doing.

Admiral Radford, for instance slipped in to see President Eisenhower by himself and arranged for the sending of 250 airplane mechanics to help the French. This was a vitally important decision. Yet the cabinet didn't know about it, the National Security Council didn't know about it, and the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who are supposed to correlate these things, didn't know about it. Finally, Secretary of Defense Wilson, who is supposed to run the Defense Department, didn't know about it.

It was even a surprise to Gen. Nate Twining of the Air Force, who had to supply the 250 airplane mechanics for Indochina. Hit-And-Miss Policy — This free-and-easy method of making decisions regarding the most vital battle area in the world continued after Congress began to raise cain about the 250 mechanics.

Senator Saltonstall, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, phoned the White House and got Gen. "Slick" Persons on the phone.

"There ought to be a cut-off date for these mechanics in Indochina," he said, explaining he wanted to assure senators that a date was fixed for the mechanics' return to the United States.

"Maybe you're right," replied Persons, who handles White House liaison with Capitol Hill. "What date would you suggest?" he asked.

Senator Saltonstall said he thought June might be a good cut-off date.

General Persons agreed. "All right, then we'll say June 15," he concluded.

Thus, in a completely casual manner, it was decided to bring the mechanics home on June 15. The Air Force was not consulted, the cabinet was not consulted, the French were not consulted. All General Persons did was phone the Pentagon and give orders for the mechanics to come home by June 15.

French Recalcitrance — Part of the administration's troubles in Indochina, however, stems from French suspicion and reluctance. The French are worried sick that too much American cooperation will give the Chinese an excuse to pour troops across the border by the hundreds of thousands, as in Korea. So far, Communist intervention has been confined chiefly to munitions and supplies.

That is why—up until last week—the French refused to let the United States participate in training native troops. U. S. military men have done a terrific job training Greek and later South Korean troops; have repeatedly urged the French to let us help them in Indochina. But the French repeatedly turned us down.

Chiang Kai-Shek has also offered to send his army to Indochina, but again the French say no. Nor do they want South Korean troops for the same reason. They fear Red Chinese intervention.

The French have not even been willing to permit U. S. observers to check American military equipment at the front, where U. S. officials suspect a certain amount is sold on the black market or finds its way into the hands of the enemy.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH AND STEWART ALSOP

The Octopus

WASHINGTON

Being subjected to a lie-detector test, according to those who have had the experience, is a little like being embraced by an octopus. One electric tentacle reaches out to measure the perspiration in the palms of your hands. Another grasps your arm, to record the variations in your blood pressure. A third feels for your pulse. A fourth grips you around the chest, and registers the depth and rapidity of your breathing.

The purpose, of course, is to detect an emotional response, which your words or your face may conceal, but which the involuntary reactions of the heart or the lungs or the sweat glands will betray. In order to elicit such an emotional response, a specially trained interrogator artfully probes into the private places of your past, and into the most hidden recess of your mind.

Your involuntary reactions to this probing process are recorded in the wavy lines of a graph, which you are not permitted to see. The graph has, of course, no legal standing whatsoever as evidence. Yet on almost everyone, the machine has a remarkable effect. It almost unfailingly produces an overwhelming impulse to tell all—even to confess to dangerous thoughts you have never held or to sins of the flesh you have never committed—in order to appease the octopus-machine. A tape recorder is concealed in the testing room—this is an essential part of the operation. And thus your own confession, in your own voice, is preserved for posterity and the security agents.

More Widely Accepted

Some people—over-sensitive souls, no doubt, mere "twisted intellectuals" with utterly outdated feelings about personal privacy—find this experience almost intolerably unpleasant. Yet it is an experience which more and more people are undergoing every day. The lie-detector machine is becoming a widely accepted instrument of government—and it is rapidly spreading from government into private industry. The success story of the lie-detector is interesting.

The story starts in the Central Intelligence Agency, the super-secret, super-sensitive cloak-and-dagger outfit. The lie-detector was introduced into the CIA about five years ago, on a limited basis. It was introduced for two reasons, both entirely sensible.

In the first place, penetration of the CIA is undoubtedly the first priority objective of the intelligence components of the Soviet MVD (and vice versa, for that matter). Thus in any intelligence agency, it is not enough to believe that the key officials are loyal. It is necessary to know.

In the second place, the half-dozen or so top officials in the

CIA—or any intelligence agency—know a great deal too much. They have to. In any intelligence agency, the work is compartmentalized below the highest level—a subordinate official in the intelligence branch, for example, will know no more than any outsider about the work of the operations branch. But a few men at the top must know everything, simply to make sure that the whole operation is balanced and rational.

This over-all knowledge is a dangerous load for any man to carry. And when one recalls names like Hiss and Fuchs and Burgess and McLean and many others, it is easy to see why it was decided that the top officials of the CIA should take lie-detector tests—and why the idea made sense.

Spreads To Others

But the idea did not stop for the top men. And indeed, logically, there was no reason why it should have. For after all, even the lowliest stenographer in the CIA may be in a position to come upon knowledge of inestimable value to a potential enemy. So it was decided that everyone in the CIA with access to secret knowledge should take the test. This was to be on a "voluntary" basis—but, obviously, anyone who refuses the "voluntary" test commits an inherently suspicious act, and is soon out of a job.

But the success story of the machine does not end with the CIA. The CIA, after all, is not the only repository of government secrets. The State Department was the next agency to introduce "voluntary" lie-detector tests, and although the tests are not yet universal in the State Department, they are becoming a more and more generally accepted practice. The Defense Department followed. And more recently such relatively non-sensitive departments as Commerce have introduced the machine.

But why stop with the government? Many private firms, after all, have government contracts which involve secrets of some sort. So it is now becoming customary to ask private citizens who work under such contracts to take a lie-detector test—on a purely "voluntary" basis, of course.

In this way, for entirely logical reasons the use of the lie-detector has spread throughout the government, and spilled over into private life. As more and more people obey the impulse to appease the machine and tell all, the records of these confessions pile up, until by now there must be in the Justice Department an immense mass of material recording forever the moral delinquencies or political eccentricities of thousands and thousands of people. And so, for the best and most logical of reasons, the old right to personal privacy is eroded away, and we begin pally to imitate the system we fear.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Politics In Politics

The effort to operate a non-political administration in a political country is falling apart. The theory that patronage is a great evil to be eschewed by a Republican president is having its effect; when a Republican applies for a job, he is rejected for being a politician. What is wanted are career men, and most career men, after 20 years of Democratic rule, are mostly Democrats.

That is what all the shouting has been about over the Lincoln Birthday week and those who have traveled hither and yon, delivering speeches on the greatness of Abraham Lincoln, have come back to Washington chagrined and frightened because unless the administration becomes political, the Democrats will win the 1954 election and possibly that of 1956. That is very discouraging news to the Republicans, particularly those who are important men in the newspapers but who have no way of cutting through the White House entourage to the President. They have no way of telling him the simple facts of political life as they see them.

Next March, the Republicans are going to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the founding of the party at Ripon, Wis. This should be a lively affair, stirring this party to an emotional outpouring on the verge of a congressional campaign. Having a President in the White House, Republicans would like to have their President at Ripon delivering a major address on the virtues of this party. It does not seem logical that so significant an event should be minus this leading personality.

It is now understood that the President does not choose to go to so strictly a partisan affair, even though the enthusiasm kindled there might bestir his party to unity and victory. Many rumors attend this decision, although I cannot vouch for the truth or falsity of any of them. Some say that he avoids Wisconsin because it is the state of the redoubtable McCarthy; others say that the decision was taken because of C. D. Jackson's psychological warfare theory that the President should be above politics, a monumental figure without a pedestal. Others say that it is the President's disposition to avoid such occasions, although all admit that his impromptu address at the Lincoln

Birthday box supper in Washington was an excellent performance, breathing sincerity and warmth.

In fact, it is recognized that President Eisenhower makes a better speech on his own than with the assistance of his speech-writers, who are acclaimed as very second rate, in no manner equal to the ghosts employed by Roosevelt and Truman. When the President stands up to talk without even a note, out of his own head and heart, it is usually a good speech, whereas the manufactured stuff, staff-written, seems to lack both body and soul. At Ripon, he would have a wonderful opportunity to establish his leadership over a leadership party.

Some Republicans are particularly moved to inquire how it is that the President cannot find the time to go to Ripon, Wis., for this 100th anniversary when he can find time to visit Paul G. Hoffman at Palm Springs, Calif. Admitting that it is none of their business to inquire how the President chooses to spend his time, they do point out that Hoffman has, during the past 20 years, been on the New Deal side of things, whereas in Ripon, votes can be made for the Republican party. There are no votes in Hoffman except his own and no one knows how that would go in a congressional election. As a matter of fact, such a visit stirs no enthusiasm among the Republicans in California as it highlights an individual whose political affiliations may be dubious.

So there is another issue to bestir the politically-minded and to cause dissension in the rank and file of Abraham Lincoln's party, which Senator Lehman of the Americans for Democrats Action denies belongs to the Republicans at all. It is beginning to look like one of those Hollywood marriages in which it is impossible to figure out who is married to whom and whether any of the marriages ever took.

The misfortune in all this is that there is lots of business to do which cannot wait too long without disastrous effects upon the nation and its economy, and that while the politicians fiddle away like a dissonant bebop band, the danger to the people increases.

Honoring Washington

Although the name Washington is attached to an important state and to countless cities, counties and townships—and to principal streets in nearly every city in the land—the nation's capital was not named Washington until after the death of the great patriot.

Originally Washington, D. C., was called the Federal City. Not until 10 days after Washington's death at Mt. Vernon did Congress adopt a resolution to the effect that a monument in tribute to the republic's first President be erected in "the city of Washington." The cumbersome expression "City of Washington" was later transformed into "Washington City." Later the designation was simplified by dropping both the apostrophe and the word "City."

Hence, in a few years after the Father of His Country had been laid to rest, the Republic's capital became known simply as Washington. Selection of a site for the capital was a "hot potato" during the federal union's infancy. Washington served his two terms as President in New York and Philadelphia.

First public building to be erected after the present site was selected was the Capitol. Next was the executive mansion. Both were constructed of Virginia sandstone somewhat reddish in color. After the War of 1812, during which it was set on fire by the British, the executive mansion was painted white to cover the scars of the fire and ever since has been known as the White House.

The structure within the federal city which more than any other gives the republic's capital an air of distinction unmatched by any capital city on the globe is the Washington monument. The resolution proposing that a monument be built was passed in 1790. Eighty-five years later it was finished! And four more years elapsed before it was opened to the public. Its cornerstone was laid with elaborate ceremonies on July 4, 1848, in the presence of many honored guests, among whom were the widows of James Madison, John Quincy Adams and Alexander Hamilton, the last-named being 91 at the time.

Construction of the shaft had reached a height of 152 feet by 1854. It stayed at this point until 1877, largely because of foundation troubles and the uncertain days during and after the Civil War. Congress finally turned the job over to Army engineers, who pushed it through to completion and placed the capstone in December 1884.

And there this symbol of Washington's moral character and integrity stands today, 555 feet, 5 1/2 inches above the ground. The shaft, faced with marble from Massachusetts and Maryland, is 55 feet square at its base. Its walls taper from a thickness of 15 feet at the base to 18 inches at the top. Each state has placed a stone of its own along the stairway of 898 steps.

Pass The Oogruk

What is an oogruk? This isn't a quiz question, exactly. There isn't a prize for the right answer, not even a pair of live oogruks. Webster's Unabridged and the Encyclopedia Britannica are of no help. But how is the lady of the house to whip up a nice dish of oogruk flippers a l'Esquimaux if she cannot find out what an oogruk is?

The recipe occurs in an Eskimo cookbook prepared by the pupils of Shismaref Day School, Shismaref, Alaska: "Cut the flippers off from the oogruk. Put the flippers in fresh seal blubber. Let them stay there about two weeks. Take the loose fur off the flipper. And then cut them in small pieces and eat the meat."

This should be a good hot-weather dish—it requires no cooking. If you have an oogruk, that is.

The cookbook also contains recipes for boiled owl, soured seal liver, white-whale stew. There are desserts, too. Eskimo ice cream—no relation to Eskimo pie—is made by grating reindeer tallow, slowly beating in seal oil, adding water, whipping until light and fluffy, and adding suet. If you happen to be out of suet, use any other berries.

These dishes taste better than might be assumed, no doubt. If you live where the thermometer hits 50 below and keeps on dropping, you need an enormous amount of fat in your diet to keep you warm. Fat will produce heat at the rate of more than 4,000 calories a pound. Sugar has only 1,800 plus, and less concentrated foods usually contain considerably less than that. If you live in an Eskimo climate, your body would need and welcome lots of fat, and a nice hunk of blubber would make your mouth water.

The rare exceptions are punished only by partial ostracism unless all members of the community, after long debate, vote unanimously for the death penalty. Rhee Wants To Resume Korean War To Help Indochina; White House Sidesteps Customary Channels In Sending Mechanics Overseas

Finally, Secretary of Defense Wilson, who is supposed to run the Defense Department, didn't know about it.

It was even a surprise to Gen. Nate Twining of the Air Force, who had to supply the 250 airplane mechanics for Indochina.

Hit-And-Miss Policy—This free-and-easy method of making decisions regarding the most vital battle area in the world continued after Congress began to raise cain about the 250 mechanics.

Senator Saltonstall, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, phoned the White House and got Gen. "Slick" Parsons on the phone.

"There ought to be a cut-off date for these mechanics in Indochina," he said, explaining he wanted to assure senators that a date was fixed for the mechanics' return to the United States. "Maybe you're right," replied Parsons, who handles White House liaison with Capitol Hill. "What date would you suggest?" he asked.

Senator Saltonstall said he thought June might be a good cut-off date.

General Parsons agreed. "All right, then we'll say June 15," he concluded. Thus, in a completely casual manner, it was decided to bring the mechanics home on June 15. The Air Force was not consulted, the cabinet was not consulted, the French were not consulted. All General Parsons did was phone the Pentagon and give orders for the mechanics to come home by June 15.

French Recalcitrance — Part of the administration's troubles in Indochina, however, stems from French suspicion and reluctance. The French are worried sick that too much American cooperation will give the Chinese an excuse to pour troops across the border by the hundreds of thousands, as in Korea. So far, Communist intervention has been confined chiefly to munitions and supplies.

That is why—until last week—the French refused to let the United States participate in training native troops. U. S. military men have done a terrific job training Greek and later South Korean troops; have repeatedly urged the French to let us help them in Indochina. But the French repeatedly turned us down.

Chiang Kai-Shek has also offered to send his army to Indochina, but again the French say no. Nor do they want South Korean troops, for the same reason. They fear Red Chinese intervention.

The French have not even been willing to permit U. S. observers to check American military equipment at the front, where U. S. officials suspect a certain amount is sold on the black market or finds its way into the hands of the enemy.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH AND STEWART ALSOP

The Octopus

WASHINGTON

Being subjected to a lie-detector test, according to those who have had the experience, is a little like being embraced by an octopus. One electric tentacle reaches out to measure the perspiration in the palms of your hands. Another grasps your arm, to record the variations in your blood pressure. A third feels for your pulse. A fourth grips you around the chest, and registers the depth and rapidity of your breathing.

The purpose, of course, is to detect an emotional response, which your words or your face may conceal, but which the involuntary reactions of the heart or the lungs or the sweat glands will betray. In order to elicit such an emotional response, a specially trained interrogator artfully probes into the private places of your past, and into the most hidden recesses of your mind.

Your involuntary reactions to this probing process are recorded in the waving lines of a graph, which you are not permitted to see. The graph has, of course, no legal standing whatsoever as evidence. Yet on almost everyone, the machine has a remarkable effect. It almost unfailingly produces an overwhelming impulse to tell all—even to confess to dangerous thoughts you have never held or to sins of the flesh you have never committed—in order to appease the octopus-machine. A tape recorder is concealed in the testing room—this is an essential part of the operation. And thus your own confession, in your own voice, is preserved for posterity and the security agents.

More Widely Accepted

Some people—over-sensitive souls, no doubt, mere "twisted intellectuals" with utterly outdated feelings about personal privacy—find this experience almost intolerably unpleasant. Yet it is an experience which more and more people are undergoing every day. The lie-detector machine is becoming a widely accepted instrument of government—and it is rather rapidly spreading from government into private industry. The success story of the lie-detector is interesting.

The story starts in the Central Intelligence Agency, the super-secret, super-sensitive cloak-and-dagger outfit. The lie-detector was introduced into the CIA about five years ago, on a limited basis. It was introduced for two reasons, both entirely sensible.

In the first place, penetration of the CIA is undoubtedly the first priority objective of the intelligence components of the Soviet MVD (and vice versa, for that matter). Thus in any intelligence agency, it is not enough to believe that the key officials are loyal. It is necessary to know.

In the second place, the half-dozen or so top officials in the

CIA—or any intelligence agency—know a great deal too much. They have to. In any intelligence agency, the work is compartmentalized below the highest level—a subordinate official in the intelligence branch, for example, will know no more than any outsider about the work of the operations branch. But a few men at the top must know everything, simply to make sure that the whole operation is balanced and rational.

This over-all knowledge is a dangerous load for any man to carry. And when one recalls names like Hiss and Fuchs and Burgess and McLean and many others, it is easy to see why it was decided that the top officials of the CIA should take lie-detector tests—and why the idea made sense.

Spreads To Others

But the idea did not stop for the top men. And indeed, logically, there was no reason why it should have. For after all, even the lowliest stenographer in the CIA may be in a position to come upon knowledge of inestimable value to a potential enemy. So it was decided that everyone in the CIA with access to secret knowledge should take the test. This was to be on a "voluntary" basis—but, obviously, anyone who refuses the "voluntary" test commits an inherently suspicious act, and is soon out of a job.

But the success story of the machine does not end with the CIA. The CIA, after all, is not the only repository of government secrets. The State Department, they are becoming a more and more generally accepted practice. The Defense Department followed. And more recently such relatively non-sensitive departments as Commerce have introduced the machine.

But why stop with the government? Many private firms, after all, have government contracts which involve secrets of some sort. So it is now becoming customary to ask private citizens who work under such contracts to take a lie-detector test—on a purely "voluntary" basis, of course.

In this way, for entirely logical reasons the use of the lie-detector has spread throughout the government, and spilled over into private life. As more and more people obey the impulse to appease the machine and tell all, the records of these confessions pile up, until by now there must be in the Justice Department an immense mass of material recording forever the moral delinquencies or political eccentricities of thousands and thousands of people. And so, for the best and most logical of reasons, the old right to personal privacy is eroded away, and we begin palely to imitate the system we fear.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Politics In Politics

The effort to operate a non-political administration in a political country is falling apart. The theory that patronage is a great evil to be eschewed by a Republican president is having this effect: when a Republican applies for a job, he is rejected for being a politician. What is wanted are career men, and most career men, after 20 years of Democratic rule, are mostly Democrats.

That is what all the shouting has been about over the Lincoln Birthday week and those who have traveled hither and yon, delivering speeches on the greatness of Abraham Lincoln, have come back to Washington chagrined and frightened because unless the administration becomes political, the Democrats will win the 1954 election and possibly that of 1956. That is very discouraging news to the Republicans, particularly those who are important men in the newspapers but who have no way of cutting through the White House entourage to the President. They have no way of telling him the simple facts of political life as they see them.

Next March, the Republicans are going to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the founding of the party at Ripon, Wis. This should be a lively affair, stirring this party to an emotional outpouring on the verge of a congressional campaign. Having a President in the White House, Republicans would like to have their President at Ripon delivering a major address on the virtues of this party. It does not seem logical that so significant an event should be minus this leading personality.

It is now understood that the President does not choose to go to so strictly a partisan affair, even though the enthusiasm kindled there might bestir his party to unity and victory. Many rumors attend this decision, although I cannot vouch for the truth or falsity of any of them. Some say that he avoids Wisconsin because it is the state of the redoubtable McCarthy; others say that the decision was taken because of C. D. Jackson's psychological warfare theory that the President should be above politics, a monumental figure without a pedestal. Others say that it is the President's disposition to avoid such occasions, although all admit that his impromptu address at the Lincoln

Birthday box supper in Washington was an excellent performance, breathing sincerity and warmth.

In fact, it is recognized that President Eisenhower makes a better speech on his own than with the assistance of his speech-writers, who are acclaimed as very second rate, in no manner equal to the ghosts employed by Roosevelt and Truman. When the President stands up to talk without even a note, out of his own head and heart, it is usually a good speech, whereas the manufactured stuff, staff-written, seems to lack both body and soul. At Ripon, he would have a wonderful opportunity to establish his leadership over a leaderless party.

Some Republicans are particularly moved to inquire how it is that the President cannot find the time to go to Ripon, Wis., for this 100th anniversary when he can find time to visit Paul G. Hoffman at Palm Springs, Calif. Admitting that it is none of his business to inquire how the President chooses to spend his time, they do point out that Hoffman has, during the past 20 years, been on the New Deal side of things, whereas in Ripon, votes can be made for the Republican party. There are no votes in Hoffman except his own and no one knows how that would go in a congressional election. As a matter of fact, such a visit stirs no enthusiasm among the Republicans in California as it highlights an individual whose political affiliations may be dubious.

So there is another issue to bestir the politically-minded and to cause dissension in the rank and file of Abraham Lincoln's party, which Senator Lehman of the Americans for Democratic Action denies belongs to the Republicans at all. It is beginning to look like one of those Hollywood marriages in which it is impossible to figure out who is married to whom and whether any of the marriages ever took.

The misfortune in all this is that there is lots of business to do which cannot wait too long without disastrous effects upon the nation and its economy, and that while the politicians fiddle away like a dissonant bebop band, the danger to the people increases.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 19.—(INS)—The first good thing that has happened to Donna Reed since she was nominated by the Academy as a best supporting actress, is that she gets a very good job at MGM. This is the studio where she started.

I happened to be out on the lot and had a glimpse of Donna—at least, I thought it was Donna, so I checked. Sure enough, she's been signed for the second lead in "Babylon Revisited," F. Scott Fitzgerald's story.

The aftermath of David Selznick's anger at not being mentioned as the producer of "Gone

With the Wind," on the MGM 30th anniversary show, has rather a serious consequence.

MGM is transferring "Gone With the Wind," one of the biggest money-makers of all time to wide screen and stereophonic sound. The studio has all rights to the picture, but Selznick still owns the master sound track, for which he had 35 different composers write the score. Without this the score cannot be transferred to stereophonic sound.

Until this trouble everyone believed Selznick would give MGM the master track, but he's holding out now. So, if "Gone With the Wind" is put out for release there will have to be a whole new musical score which would cost a fortune.

Dick Haymes, almost out of his mind with worry over assorted lawsuits, has received an offer of $10,000 a week from Argentina's musical impresario, Enrique Kotliarenco, to make a musical in Buenos Aires.

Maria Antinea, the highest paid stage star, and Kotliarenco's wife, is the femme star.

This ties in with news stories out of the East earlier this week that Dick and Rita you-know-who are about to abandon the U.S.A. in order to dodge his troubles. Another good reason is that Dick isn't receiving too many offers here. It was hinted that Rita and Dick are heading for Mexico.

Even though Dick is up for deportation, he owes Uncle Sam so much that Los Angeles federal tax head, Robert Riddle, was quoted as saying that USA didn't want him to leave this country until he pays his debt.

Today in New York the first annual reunion of the Marine Corps Combat Correspondents Association is being held at the Gramercy Park Hotel, on the 9th anniversary of the assault of Iwo Jima. Joe Rosenthal, who took the famous flag raising picture, is guest of honor.

In the group of Hollywood men who served with this group are Johnny Campbell, William Lundigan, Louis Hayward, Milton Spelling, Bill Hendricks, Gordon Maynard (Maggie Ettinger's boy), and Leonard Riblett of the Examiner. They are all a fine group of men. Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Peter Ustinov, who married Suzanne Cloutier Feb. 15 in London, is bringing his bride to Hollywood when he reports for "The Egyptian."

At Ciro's the other night it was nice to see Sir Alexander Maxwell, head of tourist travel in London. He was with William Perleberg and Mrs. Henry Busse, who looks so much like her sister, Bobbe, Bill's wife, that everyone thought she was Mrs. Perleberg.

Gloria De Haven was with Martin Kimble. Seems everything is all right with them. And Eleanor Parker was with Bert Friedlob's brother, Fred. In fact, it was Bert who made the reservations for his brother and Eleanor.

Billy Daniels could hardly get off the stage. He sang and sang—and never better. Giving him wonderful support is his pianist, Benny Payne, who also does a song number.

John Bromfield walked into the Harlequin alone. Later Corinne Calvet, Bromfield's estranged wife, walked in with Jack Sassoon. All three sat together for awhile, but when Corinne left it was with Bromfield.

The Sid Kullers (the writes and produces Donald O'Connor's TV shows) will be three in June.

William Holden is the next to have his life story told in the Saturday Evening Post.

From all sides I hear Ronald Reagan is excellent in his night club act at the Las Vegas Last Frontier.

That's all today. See you Monday.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

If women realized how men associate well-groomed hair with feminine appeal, there would be few who neglect it.

To be easily manageable and to fall quickly into face-framing attractiveness, hair must be kept immaculately clean and healthy. It is amazing that many women who bathe daily and cleanse their faces meticulously feel that hair cleanliness can be just a "some-time thing".

Daily Duty

For cleanliness, for a healthy scalp and soft, glossy beauty, the hair must be brushed daily. And picking up the brush, wielding it fast, hard and roughly over the head following the skull's shape will never accomplish the desired results.

For luster and polishing the hair shafts, nothing can equal the effectiveness of a good bristle brush—and naturally, unless your brush is absolutely clean every day, it cannot do its work.

Whenever possible, brush your hair before an open window. When weather permits, brush it out of doors. Airing and ventilating the hair is an important factor of your brushing session, both beneficial to the scalp and as an aid to keeping hair clean and fresh.

Start your brushing session with your head bent down between your knees. In this position, blood is brought to the scalp and it is possible to reach strands of hair that otherwise would be skipped.

Sectional Brushing

Start by brushing the hair from the nape of the neck forward to the hair often in order to reach all inner sections. Start the brush right at the scalp and brush away be brushed by starting at the hair line and brushing over the crown of the head.

When your hair has been well brushed, your scalp will feel relaxed and refreshed. When your hair is well-brushed daily your reward is in a lustrous, easily-managed coiffure!

The Liberate Frenzy

I don't usually pay much attention to letters. The letter-writers, it is my considered opinion, wield entirely too much influence in our fear-ridden society already. This is the age of letter-writing.

Never before in recorded history have so many people leapt to their desks to pen a missive to someone they don't know, expressing an opinion on the letter-receiver's act at the Palace or his yesterday's column in "The Daily Bladder" or his appearance on the Milton Berle show.

The world, I've arbitrarily decided, is divided into two classes of people — those who write letters and those who receive them. If you have a column or a television show, you receive letters. If you haven't you write 'em.

I'm a letter-receiver and we letter-receivers get to loathe mail, even the nice mail, simply because there's so much of it. How do so many people have so much time? Every time Arthur Godfrey opens his mouth 30,000 letters pour in. Just think of the man-hours — or more probably woman-hours. Of course, there is a good deal of polite lying about the amount of mail anyone receives. If an entertainer says he gets 10,000 letters a week, you may assume that on a good week, he gets maybe 2,000.

The letters fall into two categories. Category 1: you are a prince among men. Category 2: you are a louse. Both opinions are wildly exaggerated. The general idea of the game is to keep category 1 well ahead of Category 2. This isn't hard. When I first started this column about eight years ago, I kept a count of the mail and it ran anywhere from five to one to eight to one in my favor. I haven't done that in some time but I should guess that ratio hasn't changed much.

That is, until I wrote a column about Liberate. Then the roof fell in. Brother, there hasn't been vituperation like that since Cicero delivered the Philippines in the Fifth Century B.C. The nicer letters started out: "Drop dead." The not-so-nice-ones — well, never mind.

Out in Indiana, "The Indianapolis News" printed the Liberate column on page 1 and then sat back to await the storm. It struck. The News switchboard was inundated with calls from infuriated women and the letters started arriving the next day. ("John Crosby, I have every read. He is rotten, disgusting." That's one of the more restrained letters.)

The Indianapolis ladies dug up the telephone number of a local resident who was unfortunate enough to be named John Crosby and his telephone rang through the night with calls from irate Liberate fans. (From the New York John Crosby to the Indianapolis John Crosby, a heartfelt apology.) Last night "The South Bend Tribune" — the Indiana girls seem to me madder than the others, though they're pretty mad even in Philadelphia, the City of Brotherly Love — called long distance to say the tempest had engulfed them, too.

What's with these girls, anyhow? It isn't just the quantity of indignation (which is prodigious) but the intensity of it which bemuses me. You can't tell me that many women get that furious over a matter of disagreement as to the merits of a piano player, any piano player. (In that regard, I still think Liberate plays piano as if he were wearing boxing gloves. I could phone Local 802 of the Musicians Union and dig up 100 piano players I'd rather listen to.)

You think maybe it's the maternal instinct this man arouses? I give up. I just think it's news that a piano player — any piano player and especially this piano player — can evoke such a furious defense.

Tripleheader Will Feature District Cage Tournament Here

Single Afternoon Game Opens Program At Fort Hill March 5

Bruce Draws Washington County "B" Champs; Night Contests Are Brunswick-Northern, Frederick-Southern, Allegany-Hagerstown

Arrangements for the 1954 basketball tournament of District No. 1 of the Maryland Public Secondary Schools Athletic Association, comprising Allegany, Frederick, Garrett and Washington counties, were completed Saturday at Hancock where coaches of the school teams which had qualified met with H. Edwin Semler, Hagerstown, state basketball chairman; Arthur G. Ramey, Cumberland, District No. 1 chairman and Walter D. Lee, Hancock, secretary of District No. 1 Board of Control.

As in 1953 the tournament will be held at Fort Hill High School Friday and Saturday, March 5-6 for both Class "A" and Class "B" teams.

The blind draw for pairings, made a year ago, will pit the Allegany county representatives against Washington county teams and Frederick county winners against Garrett county titlists in both Class "A" and "B". The drawings were made separately and the same pairings are only coincidental.

Tripleheader Friday Night

Another draw for time of games resulted in a single afternoon contest on Friday and a tripleheader Friday night. The draw for one afternoon game on Friday will find Bruce High, Westernport, playing either Smithsburg or Williamsport of Washington county at 4:30 p. m. The first evening game, scheduled for 6:30, will bring Brunswick High, Frederick county, against Northern of Garrett in the second Class "B" tilt. Officials for this game are William P. Hahn and Robert Pence.

In the first Class "A" game Friday, Frederick and Southern High of Oakland will clash at 8 o'clock with Hahn and Pence as the officials.

Allegany Plays Hagerstown

The final game Friday night, Class "A", will be between Walter L. Bowers' Allegany High Campers and Mel Henry's Hagerstown Hubs. This contest is set for 9:30 and will have Bill Bossi and Alex Rich as the officials.

All Friday games are semi-finals for the district. Winners on Friday in both classes, "A" and "B", will advance to the district finals on Saturday. Officials for Saturday games will be assigned after Friday's semi-finals by the district committee composed of Warren Evans, Frederick; H. Edwin Semler, Foster Bittler, Oakland, and Arthur G. Ramey.

Father Arrives At Bedside Of Stricken Son

Slight Hope Held For Tommy Brown

Little Walter "Tommy" Brown, who "died" for five minutes during a tonsillectomy last Wednesday at Sacred Heart Hospital, and was revived by prompt action of a local surgeon who massaged his heart, showed some improvement yesterday.

His father, Pvt. Walter T. Brown, who flew from the West Coast, arrived here yesterday afternoon and went directly to the hospital to see his son.

The child was conscious and attendants said it was possible that the boy recognized his father.

Pvt. Brown, a veteran who re-enlisted in the service, had been shipped to the West Coast for transport out of the country. When his child became ill, the Red Cross was contacted.

Plane Grounded By Fog

Through the efforts of Allegheny County Chapter Red Cross Home Service, the Army granted Pvt. Brown 15 days emergency leave from Fort Lewis, Wash. He took a plane almost immediately and flew as far as Pittsburgh.

There he was to board a local plane, and was scheduled to arrive at the Municipal Airport here at 12:30 yesterday afternoon. The Red Cross was on hand to meet him and take him directly to the hospital.

However, foggy weather and rain in the Pittsburgh area grounded the plane and Pvt. Brown came here by bus, arriving at 4:45 p. m. He went immediately to the hospital and was taken to see his son. He expressed his gratitude for what has been done and his hope that the boy will survive and fully recover.

Underwent Tonsillectomy

Little Tommy, as he is known to his family and friends, had been taken to Sacred Heart Hospital for a routine tonsillectomy on Wednesday. A throat specialist was performing the operation. After removing one tonsil, the doctor noticed that Tommy's heart had stopped.

The physician ran to an adjoining operating room, where he knew a surgeon was working, and asked for assistance. The surgeon made a chest incision and began massaging the stilled heart. In about a minute, the heart started pumping again, and circulation was renewed.

The physician, who asked to remain anonymous, had never before attempted this operation.

Medical men explain that about once in 10,000 throat operations, there is a chance that a heart may stop beating. The odds are also great that it can be started again. There are several cases recorded, however, where this heart massage technique has "brought the dead back to life" and cases of full recovery to normal activity.

Prayers Said For Child

Little Tommy's mother, Mrs. Eileen (Frisby) Brown, along with his grandparents and other relatives, has maintained a constant vigil. In several city churches yesterday, prayers were said for the child and his family.

On Saturday, Tommy rallied and regained consciousness. He noticed a few things, was able to take some milk and even smiled at the doctor. His serious condition was recorded as "very slightly improved."

Hospital attaches and medical men were hopeful, but offered no more than hope.

Nurses said, "It all seems like a miracle. The child is fighting a courageous battle." Late last night the report was "still holding his own."

Father Veteran Of Two Wars

Following surgery on the six-year-old boy, the father could not be located for an entire day. When found, it was indicated he was ready to board a transport and permission to come home was refused by the Army.

However, the Red Cross here insisted that this was an extreme emergency and a telephone call was made to San Francisco Red Cross appealing for their intervention. When the situation was clarified, Pvt. Brown was ordered on 15 days emergency leave by the Army and the Red Cross arranged his transportation home.

Pvt. Brown had been home on furlough last month. He is a veteran of World War II and of the Korean fighting. He wears a number of combat ribbons and the Combat Infantryman's Badge.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond F. Hoyle, Washington, announce the birth of a daughter February 15 at Garfield Memorial Hospital there. The grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hoyle, 217 Grand Avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Brant, LaVale.

Memorial Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. Howard R. Shaffer, Hyndman, Pa., a son yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Williams, Rt. 3, Valley Road, a daughter Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Newcomb, 44 North Mechanic Street, a son Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ginevan, Levels, W. Va., a daughter Friday.

Red Cross Brings Pvt. Brown Home

Through the efforts of the Red Cross, Pvt. Walter T. Brown arrived here yesterday and went immediately to the bedside of his six-year-old son "Tommy" (inset), whose heart stopped beating for five minutes during an operation. The child was revived when a surgeon opened his chest and massaged his heart. In the photo at the left, the child's mother, Mrs. Eileen Brown is seen at the airport with Mrs.

Holmes Cessna of the Red Cross, awaiting the arrival of Pvt. Brown. However, his plane was grounded in Pittsburgh and he did not arrive until four hours later when he came by bus. Going immediately to the bedside of his son, who recognized him "for an instant," according to a nurse, Pvt. Brown is seen being briefed by Nurse Ella M. Cronin of the boy's condition.

Wills Creek Drops As Flood Gates Of Dam Are Opened

Mud banks, washed clean by the current and by an overnight rain, appeared in Wills Creek near the Baltimore Street Bridge over the weekend.

The lowered level of the stream, officials said, resulted from the opening of the flood gates of the industrial dam located near the mouth of the creek.

The gates were opened at the request of the E. J. Albrecht Company, which is building the new Industrial Dam at Riverside Park, to lower the level of the stream below the completed portion of the dam.

Water for industries will not be affected, since half of the dam has been completed and a coffer dam has been placed in the stream to allow completion of the West Virginia side.

The effect on Wills Creek is to allow the water, normally dammed up, to escape into the river as if the old industrial dam were not there.

Lodge 1003 To Meet

Important issues pending will be considered at the regular meeting of the Miller-Dale Lodge No. 1003, Brotherhood of Railway Clerks of the Western Maryland Railway Company, February 23, at 7:30 p. m., in the Moose home, Beall Street.

Today's Sermonette

For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life. John 3:16.

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached yesterday at Calvary Methodist Church, Ridgely, by the pastor, Rev. T. Roscoe Hall Jr. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

New Testament Salvation

By REV. T. ROSCOE HALL JR.

The word "salvation" is a great word. Paul was able to say, "I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to everyone that believeth." Salvation is threefold: it deals with sins of the past, that is, sin's penalty. This is immediate. It is a crisis which takes place in the heart and life of the individual. This is accomplished only through the death of Christ on the cross.

Salvation also deals with the present, that is, it delivers from sin's power. This is continuous. It is possible because of Christ's life. We serve a risen, living Lord. It also deals with the future, it will deliver from sin's presence. This is prospective. This will take place at Christ's second coming.

This is the glorious hope that all may have in the salvation which Christ has provided for all who will believe. Salvation less than the New Testament requirement is to fall short of God's will.

We may well ask the question as to what this New Testament salvation is. It is essentially the love of God revealed to men. This is proved to us by the text in John 3:16. It is a love that reaches to lost man to lead him out of the darkness of sin into the light of Jesus Christ. It means sonship to those who receive Him. "But as many as received Him, to them gave He power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on His name." (John 1:12). There can be no middle ground, we are either a son of God or a son of Satan.

This New Testament salvation leads us to confess that Jesus is the Christ. "And Simon Peter said, 'Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.'" (Matthew 16:16).

Hereby know ye the Spirit of God: Every spirit that confesseth that Jesus is come in the flesh is of God." (1 John 4:2). "Whosoever believeth that Jesus is the Christ is born of God." (1 John 5:1). It will lead us to opposition. "For the Jews had agreed already, that if any did confess that he was Christ, he should be put out of the synagogue." (John 9:22). "Nevertheless among the chief rulers also many believed on Him; but because of the Pharisees they did not confess Him, lest they be put out of the synagogue: for they loved the praise of men more than the praise of God." (John 12:42, 43).

New Testament salvation involves life-long service. "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life." (Revelation 2:10). "See that ye walk circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise, redeeming the time, because the days are evil. Wherefore be ye not unwise, but understanding what the will of the Lord is." (Ephesians 5:15-17). It involves the purifying of life. "And every man that hath this hope in Him purifieth himself even as He is pure." (1 John 3:3). It is impossible to have power with God and man without first having purity.

The glorious results of New Testament salvation, in the first place, is that it leads to Christ's likeness. "But speaking the truth in love, may grow up into Him in all things, which is the head, even Christ." (Eph. 4:15). "As for me, I will behold thy face in righteousness: I shall be satisfied, when I awake, with thy Likeness." (Psalm 17:15). It leads to life everlasting. "And being made perfect, He became the author of eternal salvation unto all that obey Him." (Hebrews 5:9).

Assembly Church Starts Building New Addition

Construction of a four-story building adjoining Central Assembly of God Church, corner of Fayette and Johnson streets, is now under way and will provide facilities for various Sunday School classes and a prayer room.

Rev. Frank J. Fratto said the cost of the new building, located in the rear of the present edifice, will cost approximately $10,000. However this cost is mostly for materials since much of the construction work is being done voluntarily by the men of the congregation.

Completion of the concrete block and brick veneer structure is expected sometime in April, Rev. Fratto pointed out. The exterior of the ground and first floors will be concrete block while the other two floors will be of brick veneer.

A new heating unit will be placed in the cellar which will also house a workshop. Sunday School classes will be held on the first and third floors while a prayer room will be located on the second floor.

The Men's Bible Class will also meet on the third floor. Each floor, Rev. Fratto added, will cover an area of 1,000 square feet and the rooms will be eight feet high.

Much of the construction work is being done under the supervision of Rev. Fratto although two local contractors are doing the masonry work. Asphalt tile is expected to be laid on the floors.

Rev. Fratto said the new addition is required since the original edifice dedicated in February of 1952, and built at a cost of about $45,000, has become overcrowded and more space is needed.

Construction of the building began about three weeks ago. The completed structure will be fire-proof and a spiral fire escape is being planned on the corner of the building.

Prior to moving into the present church, the congregation met and worshipped at the North Cumberland Assembly of God Church, corner of Lee and Wallace Streets.

Rainfall May Increase City Water Supply

Rain which fell in nearby Pennsylvania over the weekend may reverse the downward trend of Lake Gordon and Lake Koon, the big reservoirs which impound water for Greater Cumberland.

Officials estimated the total weekend rainfall at Lake Gordon at about half an inch. This is just about that recorded at Constitution Park, which reported .55 inch in a 30-hour period.

Robert R. Golden, official weather observer, said total rainfall so far this month totals .90 inch, with 2.34 inches the normal fall for February.

A check of the dams yesterday morning showed Lake Gordon seven feet, nine inches below the crest — a drop of only five inches during a week, and Lake Koon 38 feet, eight inches, a drop of one inch.

Officials said streams running into Lake Koon seemed to be running higher yesterday as a result of the rain, and the effects could be noted for several days.

Meanwhile, the crew at the Lake Gordon filtration plant have begun the installation of a pumping station which will allow the city to use a 700,000-gallon supply which is not available for filtration by gravity.

Construction of a pump house at the bottom of the dam has begun, and pipe will be delivered to the project today. Power will be furnished by the pump taken from the Fort Hill reservoir standpipe.

Officials said the pump being installed is one that was used for the same purpose back in 1936, one of the occasions when it was necessary to pump water into the filter plant.

Man Is Killed In Car Crash

A Pittsburgh man was killed and four men were injured when the car in which they were riding ran off the Pennsylvania Turnpike eight miles east of Somerset early yesterday morning.

Everett Kinder, 25, Pittsburgh, died of a broken neck when he and all other occupants of the car driven by Albert Barr, 25, also of Pittsburgh, were thrown clear of the overturned vehicle.

Injured were Ed Glaskas, 45, Pittsburgh; Jerome Verdugas, 28, with the Navy at Bainbridge, and Joe Joscusakas, 39, also of Pittsburgh.

Barr, police said, is being held in Somerset County jail and will be charged with involuntary manslaughter.

Christine Madden, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Madden, 529 Riehl Avenue, was reported in "good" condition last night at Sacred Heart Hospital where she was admitted Saturday following an auto accident at Fairview Avenue and Pear Street. She suffered a deep laceration of the forehead.

Hospital attendants said the girl, a baby sitter, was being returned to her home by Thomas E. Mackert, 410 Holland Street, when his car skidded on the wet street and hit a telephone pole.

About 1:30 a. m. Saturday at Clarysville an auto driven by Ronald James Screen, 26, of LaVale, overturned as he was traveling east on U. S. 40. Injured and admitted to Memorial Hospital for X-rays and observation was Mrs. Anne Campbell, 109 Green Street, an occupant of the car.

Rescue Workers Speed To Youths Trapped On Cliff

Lads Reach Safety Before Help Arrives

Rescue workers from Cumberland and LaVale were rushed to Lover's Leap in the Narrows yesterday afternoon after two Frostburg youths were reported trapped halfway down the steep face of the cliffs.

Police said Samuel Leptic, 16, and William Roberts, 15, both of Frostburg, had managed to find their way down the precipice when Cumberland Police and the LaVale Fire Department reached the scene.

Police Rush To Scene

William McLane and Thomas Malampy, both 16 and of Frostburg, reported the predicament of their companions to Cumberland police at 4:40 p. m.

The youths told police their friends were halfway down the cliffs, unable to go up or down. The Cumberland police ambulance, manned by Officers Powers, Shank and Dennison, hurried to the top of Wills Mountain, prepared to lower ropes to the trapped youths.

The LaVale Fire Department sent a crew of men in a fire truck, prepared to attempt a rescue from the lower part of the cliffs.

Boys "Rescue" Selves

But police said the boys were sitting on a bridge near the bottom of the cliff when rescue workers reached the scene.

The Frostburg youths, police said they were told, came down to Cumberland to bowl and that when returning, two decided to make the trip by way of the cliffs.

Police said the ambulance-patrol wagon is always equipped with some rescue equipment. This includes about eight lengths of rope in 100- to 200-foot lengths, grappling hooks, stretchers and blankets.

The incident caused a traffic jam on Route 40 in the Narrows for some time as drivers stopped to watch the lads make the perilous descent.

Mrs. Rephann Is Committed To Institution

Mrs. Shirley Alice Rephann, Bowman's Addition, was ordered committed to Spring Grove State Hospital for an indefinite period by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris Saturday after a formal charge of murder had been filed in Allegheny County Circuit Court against her in the death of her baby daughter on February 11.

William L. Wilson Jr., Mrs. Rephann's attorney, presented a petition for habeas corpus in which he said his client could not adequately cooperate in the preparation of her defense and was not in condition to stand trial after State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher had secured the warrant charging the 23-year-old mother with murder.

The formal charge was placed against Mrs. Rephann after her husband, Donald Earl Rephann, a furloughed Western Maryland Railway machinist, had found their daughter, Karen Gail, drowned in a half-filled bathtub at the Rephann home.

Judge Harris, noting that both the prosecution and defense counsel agreed with the report of Dr. Manfred Guttmacher, Baltimore court psychiatrist, signed the order committing her to the hospital, where she will remain for an indefinite time or until her mental capacity is determined by doctors.

Mrs. Rephann seemed to be in a dazed condition when she appeared in court accompanied by authorities, her husband and a matron from Allegheny County Infirmary. Relatives made no show of emotion when the judge ordered her sent to the state institution.

Last week Mrs. Rephann was examined in Baltimore by Dr. Guttmacher and Judge Harris noted the latter recommended further observation to determine whether or not she is criminally insane.

The woman's husband returned home from work on the morning of the baby's death and found the little girl in the tub. An autopsy showed the baby had been dead four hours. The Rephanns have one other child.

Two B&O Freight Cars Derailed At Harpers Ferry

Two loaded cars on eastbound Baltimore and Ohio freight train No. N.Y. 96 were derailed about one mile west of Harpers Ferry early Sunday morning. Two tracks were blocked but no one was injured.

Railroad officials said No. 1 track was cleared at 6:30 a. m. and No. 2 track was opened at 2:30 p. m. Sunday. The derailment occurred at 1:25 a. m. No cause was given.

Returns To Duty

City Policeman John G. Powers, 123 Hanover Street, returned to duty Saturday. Powers had been off duty for nearly six weeks after suffering a fractured left elbow in a fall at City Jail.

Church Addition Going Up

Members of Central Assembly of God Church are shown inspecting progress in construction of a new four-story addition to the church at North Johnson and Fayette streets. The building, which will cost $10,000, is being built largely through volunteer work by men of the congregation. It will provide space for Sunday School classes and a prayer room.

The lowered level of the stream, officials said, resulted from the opening of the flood gates of the industrial dam located near the mouth of the creek.

The gates were opened at the request of the E. J. Albrecht Company, which is building the new Industrial Dam at Riverside Park, to lower the level of the stream below the completed portion of the dam.

Water for industries will not be affected, since half of the dam has been completed and a coffer dam has been placed in the stream to allow completion of the West Virginia side.

The effect on Wills Creek is to allow the water, normally dammed up, to escape into the river as if the old industrial dam were not there.

Lodge 1003 To Meet

Important issues pending will be considered at the regular meeting of the Miller-Dale Lodge No. 1003, Brotherhood of Railway Clerks of the Western Maryland Railway Company, February 23, at 7:30 p. m., in the Moose home, Beall Street.

Today's Sermonette

For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life. John 3:16.

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached Saturday at Calvary Methodist Church, Ridgeley, by the pastor, Rev. T. Roscoe Hall Jr. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

New Testament Salvation

By REV. T. ROSCOE HALL JR.

The word "salvation" is a great word. Paul was able to say, "I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to everyone that believeth." Salvation is threefold: it deals with sins of the past, that is, sin's penalty. This is immediate. It is a crisis which takes place in the heart and life of the individual. This is accomplished only through the death of Christ on the cross.

Salvation also deals with the present, that is, it delivers from sin's power. This is continuous. It is possible because of Christ's life. We serve a risen, living Lord. It also deals with the future, it will deliver from sin's presence. This is prospective. This will take place at Christ's second coming. This is the glorious hope that all may have in the salvation which Christ has provided for all who will believe. Salvation less than New Testament requirement is to fall short of God's will.

We may well ask the question as to what this New Testament salvation is. It is essentially the love of God revealed to men. This is proved to us by the text in John 3:16. It is a love that reaches to lost man to lead him out of the darkness of sin into the light of Jesus Christ. It means sonship to those who receive Him. "But as many as received Him, to them gave He power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on His name." (John 1:12.) There can be no middle ground, we are either a son of God or a son of Satan.

This New Testament salvation leads us to confess that Jesus is the Christ. "And Simon Peter said, 'Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.'" (Matthew 16:16.) Hereby know ye the Spirit of God: every spirit that confesseth that Jesus is come in the flesh is of God." (1 John 4:2.) "Whosoever believeth that Jesus is the Christ is born of God." (1 John 5:1.) It will lead us to opposition. "For the Jews had agreed already, that if any did confess that he was Christ, he should be put out of the synagogue." (John 9:22.) "Nevertheless among the chief rulers also many believed on Him; but because of the Pharisees they did not confess Him, lest they be put out of the synagogue: for they loved the praise of men more than the praise of God." (John 12:42,43.)

New Testament salvation involves life-long service. "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life." (Revelation 2:10.) "See that ye walk circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise, redeeming the time, because the days are evil. Wherefore be ye not unwise, but understanding what the will of the Lord is." (Ephesians 5:15-17.) It involves the purifying of life. "And every man that hath this hope in Him purifieth himself even as He is pure." (1 John 3:3.) It is impossible to have power with God and man without first having purity.

The glorious results of New Testament salvation, in the first place, is that it leads to Christ's likeness. "But speaking the truth in love, may grow up into him in all things, which is the head, even Christ." (Eph. 4:15.) "As for me, I will behold thy face in righteousness: I shall be satisfied, when I awake, with thy Likeness." (Psalm 17:15.) It leads to life everlasting. "And being made perfect, He became the author of eternal salvation unto all that obey Him." (Hebrews 5:9.)

Construction of a four-story building adjoining Central Assembly of God Church, corner of Fayette and Johnson streets, is now under way and will provide facilities for various Sunday School classes and a prayer room.

Rev. Frank J. Fratto said the cost of the new building, located in the rear of the present edifice, will cost approximately $10,000. However this cost is mostly for materials since much of the construction work is being done voluntarily by the men of the congregation.

Completion of the concrete block and brick veneer structure is expected sometime in April, Rev. Fratto pointed out. The exterior of the ground and first floors will be concrete block while the other two floors will be of brick veneer.

A new heating unit will be placed in the cellar which will also house a workshop. Sunday School classes will be held on the first and third floors while a prayer room will be located on the second floor.

The Men's Bible Class will also meet on the third floor. Each floor, Rev. Fratto added, will cover an area of 1,000 square feet and the rooms will be eight feet high.

Much of the construction work is being done under the supervision of Rev. Fratto although two local contractors are doing the masonry work. Asphalt tile is expected to be laid on the floors.

Rev. Fratto said the new addition is required since the original edifice dedicated in February of 1952, and built at a cost of about $45,000, has become overcrowded and more space is needed.

Construction of the building began about three weeks ago. The completed structure will be fire-proof and a spiral fire escape is being planned on the corner of the building.

Prior to moving into the present church, the congregation met and worshipped at the North Cumberland Assembly of God Church, corner of Lee and Wallace Streets.

AFL Meetings Set

The Building and Construction Trades Council will meet today at 7:30 p. m. in the Allegany Trades Council Hall. The Allegany Trades Council will meet tomorrow at 7:30 p. m.

State, County Demos Plan Workshop

Many prominent state and national Democratic leaders will speak tonight at a combined workshop and clinic to be held at 8 o'clock at the Fort Cumberland Hotel ballroom by Democrats of Allegany County.

The event is being sponsored by the Democratic State Central Committee, United Democratic Women's Club, Young Democrats Club and the Georges Creek Democratic Club. Mrs. Jim McQuown is chairman of the workshop.

Mrs. McQuown will extend greetings at the workshop and Anne B. Everline, secretary of the Young Democrats Club, will explain the workshop. Mrs. Ralph Wells, of Brookville, Montgomery County, chairman of speakers for workshops in Maryland, will talk on fund raising efforts.

Ruth Fleming, past president of the Democratic Women's Club of Montgomery County, will discuss precinct to national committee work. Advance planning for election day will be the topic of Mrs. Elsie Jensen, of Washington, director of the national campaign in 1952.

Mrs. Mildred Otenasek, Baltimore, vice chairman of the National and State Central Committees, will discuss year-round campaign work in the community. Brewer Stauffer, publisher of the Weekly News, Hagerstown, will discuss publicity.

William L. Wilson, chairman of the State Central Committee for Allegany County, will discuss political organization. Lewis A. Dexter, director of social science research at the American University in Washington, will discuss registration, Maryland requirements for registration, and necessary steps for house-to-house coverage.

Thomas F. Conlon, Jr., president of the Young Democrats Club of Allegany County, will preside at the session.

Area Students Win Reserve Commissions

Three Allegany County men who are seniors at the University of Maryland have received commissions as second lieutenants in the Air Force Reserve.

They are John R. Alderton, RFD 2, Williams Road; Donald E. Moran, 215 Hammond Street, Westport, and William K. Price, 206 South Allegany Street, Cumberland.

Assault Charges Placed Against Cresaptown Men

Felonious and malicious assault warrants were issued against three Cresaptown men Saturday by Mineral County, W. Va., authorities following a fight on Route 28 between Ridgeley and Fort Ashby which hospitalized one youth and injured two others.

Vernon E. "Pat" Rankin, prosecuting attorney for Mineral County, obtained the warrants against Benjamin Poling, 30, Gene Keister, 27, and Richard Haines, 22, all of Cresaptown.

Rankin said the altercation occurred February 8 about midnight when the three Cresaptown men allegedly "jumped" a party of teen-agers en route to Fort Ashby, injuring James I. Lewis, 18, of Cumberland, so severely that he was hospitalized several days with body bruises, a broken jaw and other injuries. Two other Cumberland youths who were with Lewis, Donald Hartel, 19, and Robert Coates, 19, both of Cumberland, also were beaten in the fracas. Rankin said.

According to Rankin the three Cresaptown men were in the company of two Cumberland girls, and had met in a Ridgeley establishment that evening prior to going to a tavern on Old Furnace Road.

The three Cumberland youths said they had been together at the tavern, where they had met the Cresaptown men. All said there had been no trouble of any kind prior to the scuffle on Route 28.

As Lewis, Hartel and Coates were driving toward Fort Ashby they saw an automobile parked along the highway with lights darkened, Rankin said. According to their testimony, as they approached, a man suddenly stepped into the road and flagged down the car which Hartel was driving.

Hartel told police he stopped the car to see if the other automobile was having trouble. As they stopped, he said, three men suddenly jumped them, pulling all three Cumberland boys from their auto and pummeling them.

Hospital attaches in Cumberland said the Lewis boy was released from the hospital Thursday.

Clinics Are Planned

The Health Department will hold a child hygiene conference in Cresaptown tomorrow at 9:30 a. m. and a heart clinic in City Hall from 9 a. m. to noon.

Rainfall May Increase City Water Supply

Rain which fell in nearby Pennsylvania over the weekend may reverse the downward trend of Lake Gordon and Lake Koon, the big reservoirs which impound water for Greater Cumberland.

Officials estimated the total weekend rainfall at Lake Gordon at about half an inch. This is just about that recorded at Constitution Park, which reported .55 inch in a 30-hour period.

Robert R. Golden, official weather observer, said total rainfall so far this month totals .90 inch, with 2.34 inches the normal fall for February.

A check of the dams yesterday morning showed Lake Gordon seven feet, nine inches below the crest—a drop of only five inches during a week, and Lake Koon 38 feet, eight inches, a drop of one inch.

Officials said streams running into Lake Koon seemed to be running higher yesterday as a result of the rain, and the effects could be noted for several days.

Meanwhile, the crew at the Lake Gordon filtration plant have begun the installation of a pumping station which will allow the city to use a 700,000-gallon supply which is not available for filtration by gravity.

Construction of a pump house at the bottom of the dam has begun, and pipe will be delivered to the project today. Power will be furnished by the pump taken from the Fort Hill reservoir standpipe.

Officials said the pump being installed is one that was used for the same purpose back in 1936, one of the occasions when it was necessary to pump water into the filter plant.

Man Is Killed In Car Crash

A Pittsburgh man was killed and four men were injured when the car in which they were riding ran off the Pennsylvania Turnpike eight miles east of Somerset early yesterday morning.

Everett Kinder, 25, Pittsburgh, died of a broken neck when he and all other occupants of the car driven by Albert Barr, 25, also of Pittsburgh, were thrown clear of the overturned vehicle.

Injured were Ed Glaskas, 45, Pittsburgh; Jerome Verdunas, 28, with the Navy at Bainbridge, and Joe Joscusakas, 39, also of Pittsburgh.

Barr, police said, is being held in Somerset County jail and will be charged with involuntary manslaughter.

Christine Madden, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Madden, 529 Rieh Avenue, was reported in "good" condition last night at Sacred Heart Hospital where she was admitted Saturday following an auto accident at Fairview Avenue and Pear Street. She suffered a deep laceration of the forehead.

Hospital attendants said the girl, a baby sitter, was being returned to her home by Thomas E. Mackert, 410 Holland Street, when his car skidded on the wet street and hit a telephone pole.

About 1:30 a. m. Saturday at Clarysville an auto driven by Ronald James Screen, 26, of LaVale, overturned as he was traveling east on U. S. 40. Injured and admitted to Memorial Hospital for X-rays and observation was Mrs. Anne Campbell, 109 Greene Street, an occupant of the car.

Knobley Mt. Post Will Meet Tonight

Knobley Mountain Post No. 136, American Legion, will hold a special meeting tonight at 8 o'clock at the post home in Ridgeley.

The meeting is called by Post Commander K. Albert Wolfe to act on by-laws changes and to name a committee to attend the 10th West Virginia District Legion meeting in Keyser on Tuesday. The district session will be held in the 40 and 8 home there.

Rescue Workers Speed To Youths Trapped On Cliff

Lads Reach Safety Before Help Arrives

Rescue workers from Cumberland and LaVale were rushed to Lover's Leap in the Narrows yesterday afternoon after two Frostburg youths were reported trapped halfway down the steep face of the cliffs.

Police said Samuel Leptic, 16, and William Roberts, 15, both of Frostburg, had managed to find their way down the precipice when Cumberland Police and the LaVale Fire Department reached the scene.

Police Rush To Scene
William McLane and Thomas Malampy, both 16 and of Frostburg, reported the predicament of their companions to Cumberland police at 4:40 p. m.

The youths told police their friends were halfway down the cliffs, unable to go up or down.

The Cumberland police ambulance, manned by Officers Powers, Shank and Dennison, hurried to the top of Wills Mountain, prepared to lower ropes to the trapped youths.

The LaVale Fire Department sent a crew of men in a fire truck, prepared to attempt a rescue from the lower part of the cliffs.

Boys "Rescue" Selves
But police said the boys were sitting on a bridge near the bottom of the cliff when rescue workers reached the scene.

The Frostburg youths, police said they were told, came down to Cumberland to bowl and that when returning, two decided to make the trip by way of the cliffs.

Police said the ambulance-patrol wagon is always equipped with some rescue equipment. This includes about eight lengths of rope in 100- to 200-foot lengths, grappling hooks, stretchers and blankets.

The incident caused a traffic jam on Route 40 in the Narrows for some time as drivers stopped to watch the lads make the perilous descent.

Mrs. Rephann Is Committed To Institution

Mrs. Shirley Alice Rephann, Bowman's Addition, was ordered committed to Spring Grove State Hospital for an indefinite period by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris Saturday after a formal charge of murder had been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court against her in the death of her baby daughter on February 11.

William L. Wilson Jr., Mrs. Rephann's attorney, presented a petition for habeas corpus in which he said his client could not adequately cooperate in the preparation of her defense and was not in condition to stand trial after State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher had secured the warrant charging the 23-year-old mother with murder.

The formal charge was placed against Mrs. Rephann after her husband, Donald Earl Rephann, a furloughed Western Maryland Railway machinist, had found their daughter, Karen Gail, drowned in a half-filled bathtub at the Rephann home.

Judge Harris, noting that both the prosecution and defense counsel agreed with the report of Dr. Manfred Gutmacher, Baltimore court psychiatrist, signed the order committing her to the hospital, where she will remain for an indefinite time or until her mental capacity is determined by doctors.

Mrs. Rephann seemed to be in a dazed condition when she appeared in court accompanied by authorities, her husband and a matron from Allegany County Infirmary. Relatives made no show of emotion when the judge ordered her sent to the state institution.

Last week Mrs. Rephann was examined in Baltimore by Dr. Gutmacher and Judge Harris noted the latter recommended further observation to determine whether or not she is criminally insane.

The woman's husband returned home from work on the morning of the baby's death and found the little girl in the tub. An autopsy showed the baby had been dead four hours. The Rephanns have one other child.

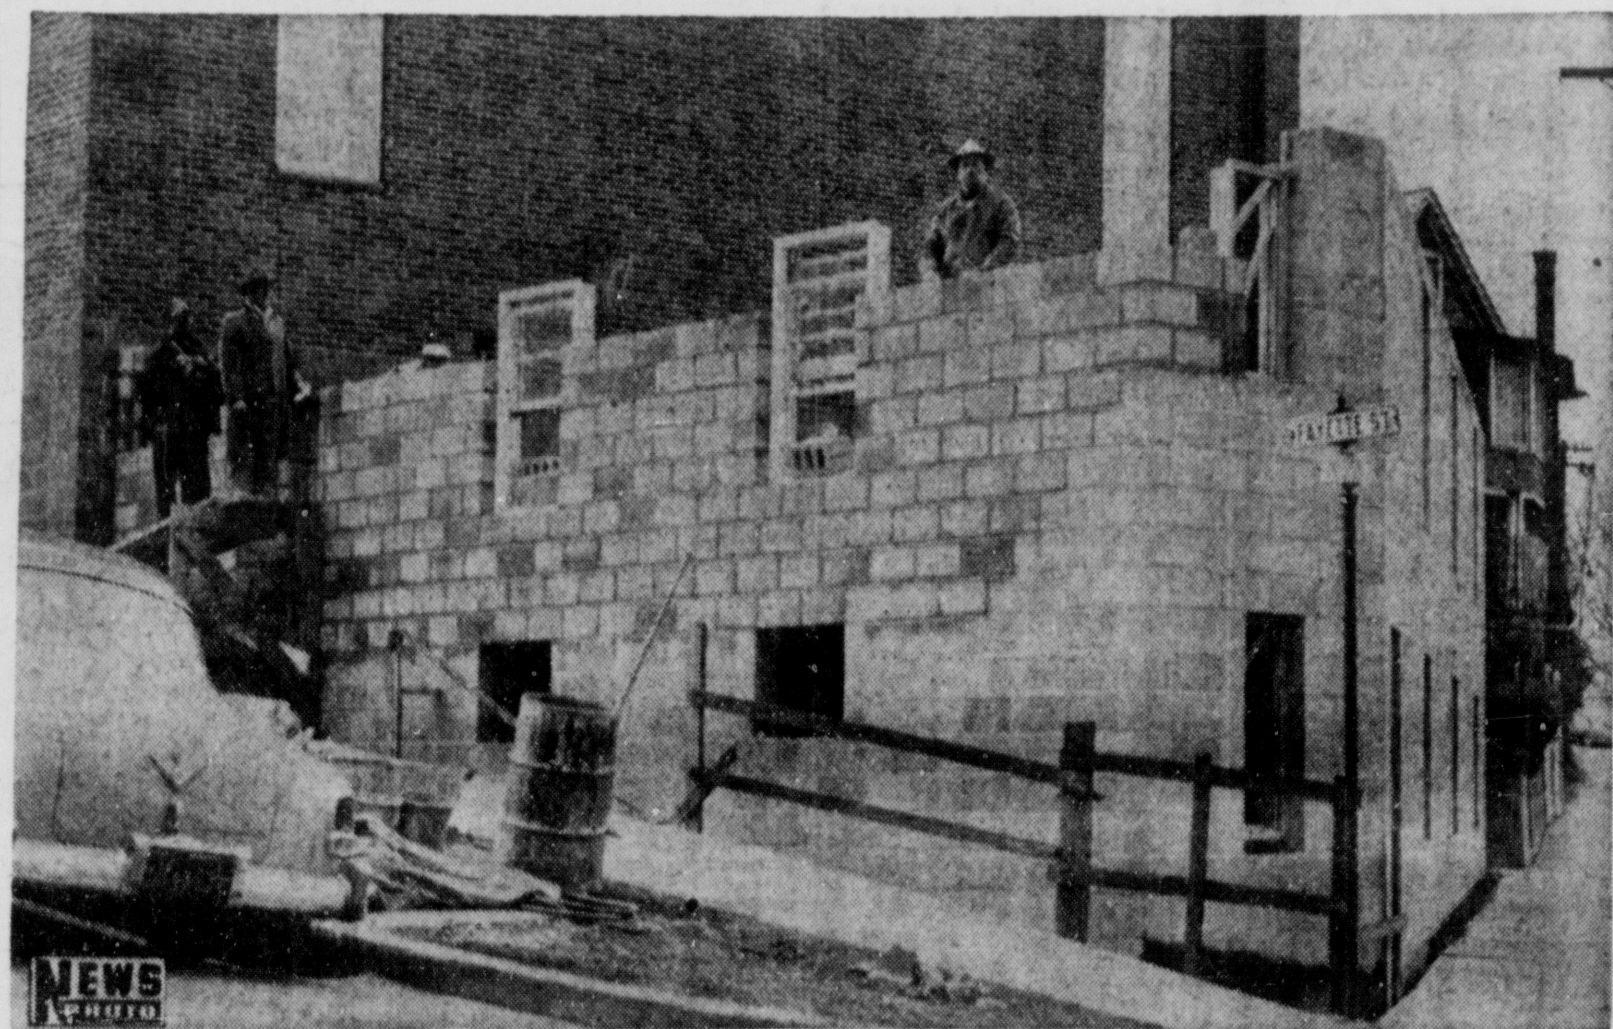

Two B&O Freight Cars Derailed At Harpers Ferry

Two loaded cars on eastbound Baltimore and Ohio freight train No. N.Y. 96 were derailed about one mile west of Harpers Ferry early Sunday morning. Two tracks were blocked but no one was injured.

Railroad officials said No. 1 track was cleared at 6:30 a. m. and No. 2 track was opened at 2:30 p. m. Sunday. The derailment occurred at 1:25 a. m. No cause was given.

Returns To Duty

City Policeman John G. Powers, 123 Hanover Street, returned to duty Saturday. Powers had been off duty for nearly six weeks after suffering a fractured left elbow in a fall at City Jail.

Church Addition Going Up

Members of Central Assembly of God Church are shown inspecting progress in construction of a new four-story addition to the church at North Johnson and Fayette streets. The building, which will cost $10,000, is being built largely through volunteer work by men of the congregation. It will provide space for Sunday School classes and a prayer room.
